Perfect Racial Balance Not Goal

Burger's Opinion Eases Busing Stand

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The chief justice acted as achieve a white-black ratio in munity must always reflect the Chief Justice Warren E. Burger presiding district judge for every school identical with the racial composition of the school system as a whole. In an April 20 decision dealing with desegregation of schools in Charlotte, N.C., the Supreme Court held that busing is an appropriate means to achieve racial desegregation. But the opinion, written by Burger, also said: "The constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean on the racial balance requirement."

Burger issued the reminder stay, Burger held that the ap- plication did not adequately list hardships that allegedly would be caused by busing. Burger said he was con- sidering the school board's request for a stay of the desegregation plan which provides for the busing of 15,000 pupils in the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County, N.C., school system.

The Rev. J. T. McMillan, head of the NAACP chapter in Winston-Salem, said of Burger's opinion: "We can now get down to the business of education and to the business of re- specting every individual as an individual."

Several school systems have asked for stays of busing or- ders, but so far none has re- ceived one.

In Alabama, the legislature moved closer to enactment of a bill offered by Gov. George C. Wallace which would restrict court-ordered busing of pupils if their parents determine that "time or distance of travel is so great as to risk the health or safety of the child or significantly impinge on the educational process."

The wording comes almost verbatim from the Supreme Court's April 20 decision.

Meanwhile more Southern schools opened Tuesday under new desegregation orders. In most cases, compliance with federal mandates was the rule.

At San Clemente, the school desegregation busing con- troversy sometimes described as a political liability for Presi- dent Nixon, has prompted a new round of White House authorized comment.

After Elliot Richardson, sec- retary of health, education and welfare, met for more than an hour with Nixon Tuesday, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler produced the HEW chief for newsmen in what clearly was an effort to estab- lish a united administration front on the busing question.

Richardson, speaking as the chief executive flew by helicop- ter to Los Angeles for lunch and a round of golf, insisted that he and Nixon never had disagreed on the busing issue.

The President, he said, "be- lieves that from an educational point of view, busing should not be used except to the minimum necessary extent. He believes that it is a good thing in principle for children to be able to attend a school in their own neighborhood."

On Aug. 3, as Richardson left Washington for a vacation, Nixon issued a statement directing the Justice Department to dis- avow an HEW school deseg-regation plan for Austin, Tex., that involved extensive busing.

Following issuance of the Nixon statement, there were published reports Richardson might resign from his Cabinet post.

"I did not consider resigna- tion," Richardson said Tues- day. He said he supported Nixon's position on busing "before Aug. 3, and I support it now."

He said HEW had advanced its Austin plan only at the di- rection of a federal court in Texas "as a matter of technical assistance" to the school dis- trict and the court.

School Aid Bonanza In California Ruling

(By The Associated Press) Government and school officials across the nation say a precedent-shattering California Supreme Court school finance ruling could lead to similar suits in other states and ultimately revolutionize American public school education.

"The California decision could be as precedent-setting as the one-man, one-vote ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court," said Michael J. Bakalis, state super- intendent of public instruction in Illinois.

A spokesman for Vermont Gov. Deane C. Davis said the decision "opens a Pandora's box." If the ruling is upheld in the federal courts "it could revolutionize education in this country," he said.

M. Carl Holman, president of the National Urban Coalition, predicted the ruling would "ulti- mately... be as momentous" as the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court school desegregation decision.

The California court ruled Monday that the local property tax form of public school fi- nancing is unconstitutional on the ground that it discriminates against the poor. It did not spell out what would be an equitable tax structure.

With the exception of Hawaii and to some extent Utah, every state in the union uses a school finance system like Califor- nia's. Over the last three years, similar suits and legislation in at least eight states had failed to eliminate public school dependence on local property taxes.

"The decision is the pre- cursor to future court decisions that will bring dramatic reform and increased equal education opportunity to poor school children throughout the coun- try," said NIC President Hol- man.

"We anticipate, then, that the experimentation will flow from the California decision with a variety of remedies rather than the immediate selection of a single formula to replace the present state funding systems in education," Holman said.

Not everyone agreed the ruling was good. Mayor A. Feder- ic Leopold of Beverly Hills, Calif., assailed the decision, de- claring, "The way to improve the bottom is not to drag the top down."

Beverly Hills has long been known as a lighthouse district, pioneering in new courses, new teaching techniques and new social approaches to education that have been used by school districts throughout the state.

The mayor of the wealthy com- munity said.

"If the current decision is allowed to stand, it will end those statewide benefits," she said, and predicted the U.S. Supreme Court would reverse the ruling on appeal.

Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., chairman of the House general subcommittee on education, took the opposite view. "It is reasonable to assume the California decision will be sus- tained by the U. S. Supreme Court," he said.

Pucinski said the ruling would add impetus to the federal aid to education bill which would underwrite one-third of the cost of educating every child in America by 1975.

"This will relieve local real estate taxes from the education burden with both the state and federal governments assuming the cost," he said.

Ohio Supt. of Public Instruc- tion Martin W. Essex said his office had been "besieged" with calls about the California ruling and added: "I would an- ticipate a suit in Ohio before too many months have gone."

"We have the same wide vari- ance in taxable resources in Ohio as in California," he said.

South Dakota Supt. of Public Instruction Donald Barnhart said, "This moves us closer to the day when the state will take a larger share of the re- sponsibility to collect and dis- tribute taxes for education of our children."

"The property tax is an anti- quated method of attempting to provide equal financing," he said.

Meanwhile, Gov. Ronald Rea- gan's finance director describes the idea of a statewide property tax to finance public schools as "a little bit of the Robin Hood principle."

"You take away from about 20 per cent of the wealthy school districts to distribute to the 80 per cent of the less wealthy," Verne Orr said Tues- day.

The Republican state admin- istration has supported the concept of a statewide tax in the past.

Reagan last year proposed a statewide school tax of $2.05 per $100 of assessed valuation. It was rejected largely because of opposition from wealthy dis- tricts, which would have had to raise their rates and share that new revenue with poor dis- tricts.

3 Lawsuits Challenge Nixon Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two labor groups and Boston police- men have filed lawsuits chal- lenging the constitutionality of President Nixon's wage-price freeze, especially as it applies to deferred pay raises and gov- ernment employees.

The Justice Department, replying Tuesday to a similar suit brought last week by four Catholic University professors in Washington, said an in- junction against the 90-day freeze would result "in the irreparable dislocation of the President's program to stem in- flation, reduce unemployment and reduce our trade deficit."

Although the professors con- tend the Economic Stabilization Act under which Nixon acted is unconstitutional because Con- gress gave its legislative pow- ers to the executive branch, the administration replied the law meets constitutional standards.

The new challenges were filed Tuesday in Washington by postal unions representing 650, 000 workers; in Kansas City by Local 124, AFL-CIO Inter- national Brotherhood of Elec- trical Workers with about 2,000 members, and in Boston by the Boston Police Patrolmen's As- sociation.

The postal unions seek a court order to thaw a $250 pay raise due Oct. 21 plus automat- ic in-grade raises. They assert the law creating the new U.S. Postal Service exempts con- tracts with its employees from any other congressional act.

Electricians in the Kansas City area construction industry seek a court order forcing con- tractors to honor a pact nego- tiated a year ago, calling for an 85-cent hourly pay boost plus 15 cents an hour more in fringe benefits, effective today.

Boston policemen, in their suit, claim the law authorizing a freeze is not applicable to government employees and ex- ceeds Congress' power to regu- late interstate commerce.

Meanwhile, the adminis- tration continued to define terms of the freeze and Con- gress gathered more informa- tion on what might be done af- ter the freeze expires Nov. 13.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Ad- visors under President Lyndon B. Johnson, agreed with labor's complaint that the freeze un- fairly benefits big business more than consumers.

A carefully planned policy must be shaped with labor's help to ease the nation out of the freeze, he said, but an ex- cess-profits tax as proposed by some is a lousy tax and full of inequities.

Ackley told Congress' Joint Economic Committee the pres- ent freeze should be successful in holding down cost-of-living ad- vances for 90 days. The policy to follow is only "the opening of a door which could lead to a healthier and more rewarding economy than the one we have been experiencing," he said.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., called on Nixon to launch anti- trust suits against what he called "the major concentrated industries in our economy."

And House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana listed new trade legislation as a pri- ority item for Congress to take up when it reconvenes Sept. 8.

Besides trade legislation, Boggs said, other priority items on the congressional calendar should be Nixon's tax package and the question of whether and in what form to continue presidential authority for wage-price controls.

The Cost of Living Council, in its 11th in a series of freeze rul- ings, declared some 17,000 Western Union employees may receive 10-per-cent pay raises negotiated before the freeze but ratified afterward.

Job Market Found Scarce For 1971 New Paltz Graduates

By WADE BURKHART NEW PALTZ The scarcity of jobs for 1971 college graduates nationwide is also affecting the 1971 gradu- ates of State University College at New Paltz.

Mrs. Mary Louise E. Farley, the college's placement direc- tor, told The Freeman of the 991 members of the college's Class of 1971 (which includes those graduating in Aug. 1970, and Jan. and June of 1971), only 232 had reported finding perman- ent occupation.

The placement office consid- ers marriage, graduate schooling, or a job as a permanent occupation.

Mrs. Farley said she was sure about 100 or 150 had not reported finding permanent oc- cupations to the college, and some of the others had found some sort of makeshift em- ployment or a summer job, but even at that, the success of the Class of 1971 in the job market was very low.

Many people do not report finding jobs to the placement office if they are "not particu- larly pleased or proud of the jobs they found," Mrs. Farley said. She thought many recent

New Paltz graduates were hav- ing to settle for a lesser job than they wanted, because of the tightness of the present job mar- ket.

Jobs for teachers are now hard to find. To cite area examples, the New Paltz Central School District had only one opening for this year, and was deluged with applicants. The Ellenville Central School District had no openings this year.

Mrs. Farley said a commis- sion, operating at the behest of Bowling Green University, re- cently found the nation might be oversupplied with teachers for the next 10 years.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Farley said, in this time of tightening school budgets, the teaching specialists are often the first to go.

In addition, Mrs. Farley pointed out liberalized abortion laws, greater emphasis on con- traception, and the nationwide drop in the birth rate noted fol- lowing the Korean War, will all have an effect on school popu- lation, limiting it and the number of teachers required.

Fire at Minnewaska Causes $75,000 Loss

By JON POWERS LAKE MINNEWASKA Firemen from three com- panies lost the battle but won the war Tuesday night, as they fought for four hours in a des- perate attempt to extinguish a blazing building on the Lake Minnewaska resort property, and to prevent the fire from spreading to several other structures a short distance away.

A two- and one-half story frame structure housing laundry equipment for the hotel was completely destroyed by the fire. Quick action by staff mem- bers of the hotel, and firefigh- ters from Accord, Gardiner and Kerhonkson, however, saved a nearby dormitory building that was threatened by the intense flames.

The mammoth Lake Minne- waska Mountain House, located about 200 feet from the burn- ing building, was not en- dangered.

The laundry building was burned to the ground, with dam- age estimated in excess of $75,000, according to Kenneth Phillips, owner of Lake Minne- waska.

The fire was first discovered shortly before 11 p.m. Tuesday by a hotel staff worker. Phillips gathered a number of employ- ees who laid several hose lines from the hotel's water source to the burning building. They attempt- ed in vain to contain the fire, and then concentrated on wetting down the neighboring buildings.

The first alarm was sounded at Accord fire headquarters at 11:55 p.m. Several trucks, and 30 volunteers, under the direc- tion of Chief Arthur Lapp, reached the isolated hotel off Route 44-55 a short time later, and assumed the firefighting efforts.

A short time later, equipment and volunteers from Gardiner and Accord were summoned as the blaze continued to rage out of control. More than 80 fire- men, with about a dozen pieces of equipment, battled the fire until 2:40 a.m. today.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. The matter is under investigation.

May Winner in Woodstock Caucus

By LYNN MULVANEY

WOODSTOCK — The Woodstock Republicans three-way contest to choose a candidate for supervisor saw incumbent Milton Houst turned down for the nomination and Verner May emerge victorious over Houst and James Myers in a GOP caucus held Tuesday night.

Two ballots were taken with Houst, a real estate broker receiving 185 votes. May, an employee of IBM received 206 votes and Myers, an attorney, 131.

On the second ballot, with Myers eliminated, May polled 271 to Houst's 192.

Five-hundred and twenty-two cast ballots the first time and only 463 the second.

Others nominated for town offices in the Nov. 2 election include Marjorie Harder, town clerk; Arthur Van Valkenburgh, superintendent of highways and Rudolph Baumgarten, town justice, all incumbents.

Wayne Underhill Jr. was named as candidate for the post now held by Arthur MacDaniel who does not seek another term.

In Marletown, incumbent Supervisor Kenneth Smith won easily over his opponent Fritz Fiedler with a vote of 287 to 65 at the GOP caucus.

Incumbent Town Justice Edmund B. Ruffner was also successful in a contest with Herman Klarsfeld by a vote of 195 to 138.

A close race took place in the contests for the nomination for assessor, two years, with Peter Sidoran the victor with 131 votes over Domenic Vallacio who received 128.

Nominations for assessor four years, and assessor, two years, went to incumbent Benjamin Van Wagenen and Lloyd Spearman both of whom were unopposed.

Town Clerk Lillian Quick also was unopposed.

In a four-way contest for the superintendent of highways nomination, two votes were taken after one of the contestants was eliminated after the first count.

Murphy Continues N.Y. Shakeup

NEW YORK (AP) — Holding to his pledge to make senior police officers accountable for the conduct of their subordinates, Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy has relieved six captains of their commands.

Murphy announced Tuesday that the six captains, five of whom have 25 or more years on the force, were being removed because recent inspections of their precincts showed widespread "cooping"—or sleeping on duty.

In several precincts sergeants and desk lieutenants were found sleeping, Murphy said. Patrolmen were found sleeping in radio cars driven into secluded areas and in their cars on their posts, he said.

In one precinct, according to Murphy, only one radio car was performing properly.

"There are two forms of corruption," Murphy said. "One is taking illegal payoffs either to do something illegal or not to do something. The other is a failure to perform the job policemen are paid to do."

Murphy said the latter example was the case here and accused the men of "not only jeopardizing the lives of citizens but also jeopardizing the lives of fellow officers, who might have needed aid."

Murphy also announced that disciplinary action has been initiated against three lieutenants, four sergeants and 18 patrolmen as a result of the investigation.

As for the captains, Murphy suggested bluntly they "seek other jobs," adding that if they preferred to stay, he would find them "a job with a lot less responsibility to see if they're up to handling it."

It was Murphy's third major announcement on departmental reorganization in three days. On Sunday he announced the retirement of Chief of Patrol Elmer Cone. The following day at the end of the week, he promoted Donald F. Cawley, the youngest inspector in the department, to succeed Cone as commanding officer of the department's 20,000 uniformed patrolmen.

Mayor John V. Lindsay continued to give his support to Murphy's shake-up, calling it a "superb job."

Murphy, meanwhile, said further changes in the command structure would be announced at the end of the week.

Teachers, Troopers Contracts Signed

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Unions for state university professionals and some 3,000 state troopers have signed new contracts with the state designed to permit raises despite the national freeze.

The pacts, both approved Tuesday, provide a 6 per cent pay hike for 15,000 teachers and administrators in the Senate Professional Association, and staggered raises for the Police Benevolent Association to bring the trooper minimum from $8,631 to $9,771 over two years.

Although both must be approved by the legislature in January, the contracts are retroactive to last July 1, thus exempting them from the freeze, according to spokesmen.

The SPA representative added that the tentative agreement on the pact was reached Aug. 11, four days before President Nixon's order.

The membership of the association ratified the three-year contract Monday with the state office of Employee Relations.

Along with the salary increase, it continues annual salary increments for faculty members of between $300 and $500, and for non-teaching professionals of between $275 and $500, association president Robert Granger said.

Its fringe benefits include, in addition to insured dental care, a third party binding arbitration clause and a death benefit that provides beneficiaries with three times the annual salary of deceased SUNY staffers, not to exceed $20,000, Granger said.

Granger said the contract was "well worth the 40 intensive bargaining sessions which began last March."

Granger, Boyer and other officials signed the contract in ceremonies at the chancellor's office.

Delmar Man Named To N.Y.C. Inquiry

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A calm, genial man who has spent his adult life as a professional government specialist is the new director of the staff for the temporary state commission to investigate New York City's government.

Howard F. Miller of suburban Delmar, a veteran fiscal advisor to Democratic party leaders, was named to the post Tuesday.

Miller, former deputy budget director in the Harriman administration and executive secretary of the Ways and Means Committee under Democratic Speaker Anthony J. Travia, is currently deputy budget director. He was named to that post earlier this year to administer the cutback in state government and will take a leave of absence while he works for the commission.

Miller, a professor at the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University, was director of the Social Development Planning Commission before that job was phased out in the cutback.

Stuart N. Scott, chairman of the commission, also named Walter T. Kicinsk of Loudonville, a former budget division examiner, and Robert J. Morgado of Delmar, former deputy director of the Social Development Planning Commission as associate directors with the commission.

Scott said salaries for the posts had not yet been determined.

Scott also named a panel of 20 "distinguished citizens" to serve as advisors to the commission.

They included Rep. Charles D. Rangel, D-N.Y., former deputy mayor; Robert Price and Paul R. Screvane; David L. Yunich, the president of Macy's, labor leaders Harry Van Arsdale, president of the New York City Central Labor Council, Peter J. Brennan, president of the building and construction trades council, and Nicholas Kisburgh, legislative director of the teamsters, and Joseph Monserrat, a member of the board of education.

Upstate Spraying — Gratifying Results

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Initial tests indicate that 70 to 100 per cent of the mosquitos that might carry a form of sleeping sickness were killed in a spraying operation over 20,000 acres of Central New York, state officials say.

The Department of Health reported "very gratifying results" from the aerial spraying program, which covered a low-lying area north of Oneida Lake between Constantia and Parish in Oswego County.

Dr. Thomas Bast, an associate medical entomologist, said mosquito traps in the area "indicate a 70 to 100 per cent reduction" in the mosquito population.

The Health and Environmental Conservation departments cooperated last week and early this week in spraying the pesticide Vapona to head off a possible outbreak of Eastern Equine Encephalitis, which was the cause of death of two horses in the area.

The department has some 200 traps scattered over 25 counties to check the mosquito population from May to October.

The standard traps are cylinders about 25 inches tall. Bast said, with a light at the top to attract the bugs. When they fly inside, a fan sucks them to the bottom. The catch is checked every day at 7 a.m.

Traps in the spray area cover a section of about 15 square miles, he said.

No evidence of the EEE virus has been turned up in other areas, Bast said.

Tex Watson's Mother: Family's Pride and Joy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles "Tex" Watson's mother testified Tuesday that before he joined the cult of Charles Manson he was his family's pride and joy, an honor student and star athlete who attended church regularly.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watson of Copeville, Tex., tearfully told the jury in her son's trial for the Tate-LaBianca murders that he returned home from California in 1968 and spoke of an impending revolution and of "a man called Jesus who was named Manson."

She said she visited him in California earlier in the year and found him to be the "same old Charles" but when he came home in December he was a changed man.

The prosecution contends Watson, 25, was Charles Manson's chief lieutenant in the series of seven murders that included actress Sharon Tate. Manson and three of his young women followers have already been convicted of the slayings and sentenced to die.

Watson has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. The defense contends that repeated use of drugs affected his mind and he was a "robot" obeying Manson's orders.

After he had joined Manson's family, she said Watson came home to act as a pallbearer at a friend's funeral.

"His voice sounded funny," she recalled with tears in her eyes. "He talked about a man called Jesus who was named Manson and he talked about a revolution and that he was going to a bottomless pit and only the Manson family would be left.

In other developments related to the Manson cult, a newspaper said Tuesday a gun-stealing raid on a weapons shop was part of an elaborate plot by the cult to mount a "commando style" attack on the courthouse to free their jailed leader.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner said Manson family members planned to free their leader by taking hostage a judge and deputy district attorney at Manson's current murder trial. They planned then to lead a mass jailbreak through tunnels from the courthouse basement, the newspaper said.

Both the sheriff's office and the district attorney's office refused to confirm or deny the report.

68 Citations By City Police

KINGSTON

A check with police records showed that during August a total of 68 citations were issued by authorities charging motorists with exceeding the city's speed limit of 30 miles an hour.

Radar equipment figured in a majority of the violations. Some motorists summoned were found to be driving cars in violation of other sections of the city ordinance and the vehicle and traffic laws.

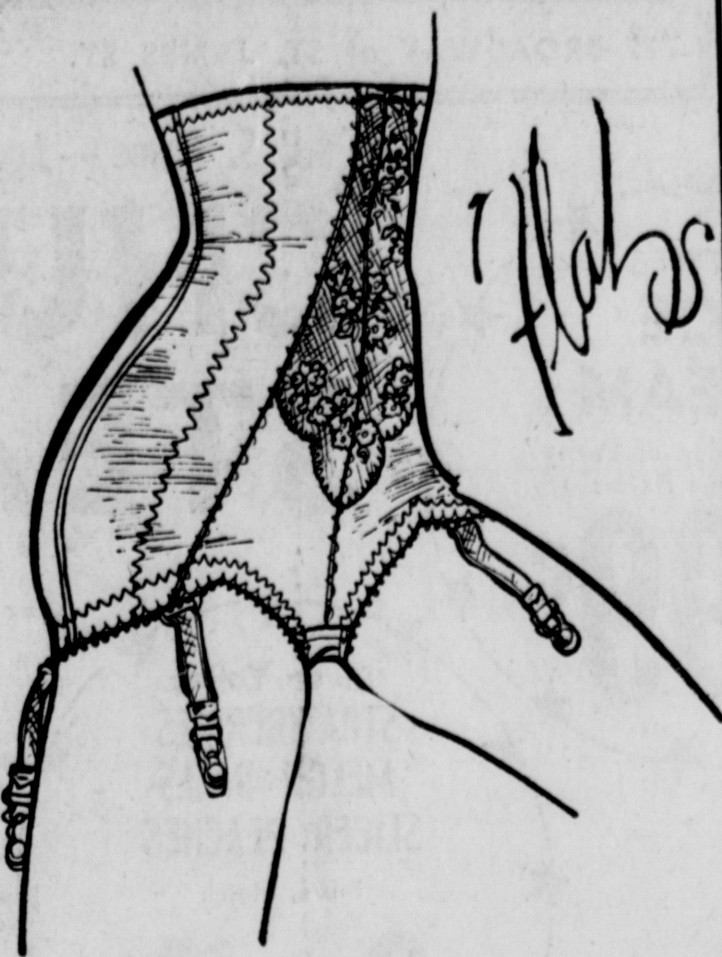

Woman Hurt In T-way Crash

KINGSTON

Beatrice Konwiazar of Duaneburg was treated at Benedictine Hospital early today for chest injuries and a possible fractured collarbone after the car she was driving smashed into a rock cut on the New York State Thruway about three miles south of the Kingston interchange, according to State Police from Kingston.

Troopers reported that the woman, whose age is unknown, was traveling north on the Thruway when she apparently fell asleep at the wheel of her car. The vehicle left the superhighway and crashed into a rock cut. The woman was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance, where she was given emergency treatment.

The mishap occurred at milepost 85 at 5:15 a. m. today.

Murder Charges in San Quentin Escape Try

Bingham Object of All-Points Search

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Authorities have issued an all-points bulletin for Stephen M. Bingham and charged the 29-year-old lawyer with five counts of murder in connection with a San Quentin prison escape attempt Aug. 21.

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales accused Bingham of smuggling a gun to George Jackson, a black militant convict killed in the attempt, which also took five other lives. "I have reached the conclusion that there is no way Jackson could have obtained the death gun, except during his visit with Bingham just before the killings commenced," Bales said Tuesday.

Bales said the pistol was found with five clips of live ammunition on Jackson's body after Jackson was shot down by prison tower guards.

Bales told a news conference after filing the murder complaint that Jackson underwent a thorough "skin search" before meeting Bingham.

Prison officials say Jackson, one of the three "Soledad Brothers" awaiting trial for the murder of a white guard at Soledad prison, pulled a pistol from a wig and took a guard hostage after returning from the visit with Bingham.

The complaint stated that within half an hour after Jackson pulled the gun, three guards were dead in Jackson's cell. Two were killed by gunshot wounds in the back of the head, and one by throat slash.

The bodies of two inmates were found in the cell area, killed by deep cuts to the throat.

Bales said the charges against Bingham are based on the same California complicity law under which black militant Angela Davis is accused of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in an Aug. 7, 1970, shootout that took four lives at the Marin County courthouse.

One of those killed was Jackson's 17-year-old brother, Jonathan.

Miss Davis is accused of supplying the guns and helping plot an escape attempt by three convicts from a trial session but she was not accused of graduate of Yale University being present at the shootout.

Bales said additional evidence discovered over the weekend appeared to "rule out the unknown or innocent transportation of the gun into the prison by Bingham." He didn't elaborate.

The possibility of innocent involvement had been advanced by Bingham's father, Alfred M. Bingham, 66, a semiretired attorney of Salem, Conn.

Young Bingham grandson of the late Connecticut Gov. and U.S. Sen. Hiram Bingham, is a

Move on Trade Legislation... Boggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will have to move promptly on trade legislation to clear the way for new international relationships the United States seeks, says House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs.

The Louisiana congressman, in an interview, listed a renewal and extension of bargaining authority among the three items that must take priority in the new atmosphere created by President Nixon's sweeping economic proposals.

The others he labeled for urgent attention when Congress reconvenes Sept. 8 are Nixon's tax package—already scheduled for House Ways and Means Committee hearings beginning that day—and the question whether and in what form presidential authority for wage-price controls should be extended.

Nixon, acting under existing authority, has imposed a 10-per cent extra duty on imports to help reverse a trend which in recent months has resulted in the United States importing more than it exports.

Boggs said he hopes the measure will be seen as a temporary one, adding: "We must consider the possibility that the action could be ruled a violation of GATT (the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade), subjecting us to punitive measures."

"Moreover, other countries could retaliate—a 10-per cent levy against us here, a 15-per cent levy there—and we would find ourselves in a full-fledged trade war."

Boggs is chairman of a Senate-House economic subcommittee that recently explored international trade problems.

A major issue blocking new legislation has been the demand for quotas on specific imports, notably textiles and footwear.

"I think we have to go back to the Cordell Hull principle of delegating wide bargaining authority to the president," Boggs

President Denies Plans to Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, claiming executive privilege for the second time since taking office, has denied the Senate Foreign Relations Committee data on military aid plans.

The action brought to a head an already bitter battle over secrecy with committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who sought a document he said detailed a five-year plan of military assistance.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said such a document never existed, but U.S. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats looked into the dispute and ruled on Aug. 17 the Pentagon has such a plan.

Fulbright had threatened to withhold pending funds for direct grants for military training and equipment unless the plan was sent to the committee, or the President claimed executive privilege.

"I am concerned," Nixon responded Tuesday, "as have been my predecessors, that unless privacy of preliminary exchange of views between personnel of the executive branch can be maintained, the full, frank and healthy expression of opinion which is essential for the successful administration of government would be muted."

Nixon's statement was in a memo to Laird, marking the first time since June 1970 the President claimed the need for executive privacy. At that time, the White House said, Nixon invoked the privilege to guard certain FBI records.

Fulbright said he found the President's decision hard to understand, "especially since the information was requested on a confidential basis and in the light of earlier statements about the desire of this administration to be open and forthcoming in its relations with the American people and the Congress."

"The refusal of the executive branch to provide this material for the use of the Senate," Fulbright said, "makes it most difficult to legislate in the area of foreign military assistance."

The entire $3.4-billion foreign assistance authorization bill, which includes funds for military aid, is pending before Fulbright's committee.

CASTRO ENDS AIRLIFT — Premier Fidel Castro, apparently concerned by steady depletion in the ranks of the Cuban professional class, has ordered an early end to the U. S.-financed airlift that has brought about 246,000 Cuban refugees to the U. S. in the past six years. A Catholic priest is on hand to welcome refugees arriving in Miami, Fla., in this photo. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Prospects Remain Slim For Airlift Continuance

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials say the United States has asked Cuba to continue the six-year-old Cuban refugee airlift. But there appears scant prospect Premier Fidel Castro will say yes.

Havana's intent to shut down the U.S.-financed shuttle flights from Varadero to Miami was announced Tuesday. Still awaiting Cuban approval for travel to America are some 100,000 Cubans with relatives in the United States.

The officials said the Swiss Embassy, representing the United States in Havana, has urged the Castro government to keep the airlift going until all who want reunion with their families have left Cuba.

If the twice-a-day flights end, a unique chapter in the history of large-scale immigration to this country will be closed.

A total of 246,000 Cubans have flown here under a 1965 understanding designed to bring in from Cuba relatives of refugees already in the United States.

Washington has spent some $600 million on the refugee program, including about $1 million a year for the airlift. U.S. authorities rate it an outstanding success.

They say the refugees generally have adjusted well and work hard in their new lives in America; that one in nine here is on relief, and that of 12,800 college education loans to the Cubans, only 150 are delinquent.

Critics, especially in such areas as South Florida where many of the Cubans stay, say the refugee program has contributed to joblessness and other burdens borne by Americans. Some say the airlift gave Castro an escape hatch for those who would make trouble for him at home.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Tuesday that Cuban authorities informed the Swiss Embassy in Havana that the airlift would be interrupted for several weeks starting today.

During this period, the Cubans said, they will be processing the final 1,000 names of 33,000 who are registered to leave under a previously agreed U.S.-Cuban master list but have not yet come out.

After these have left, the Cubans said, the airlift will end. It has been ferrying 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month.

Still not approved by Cuba for the exodus are about 6,500 family members of 2,500 unaccompanied Cuban children already here and more than 94,000 other relatives whose names were supplied by Cubans in this country.

Why Castro is stopping the flights is a matter of conjecture here, but his public posture does not indicate he is about to change his mind.

Nuns Enlist

BOSTON (UPI)—Two nuns are to be sworn in today as members of the state Air National Guard in the office of Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

Sister Sheila McGuirk of South Grafton, a nurse's aide, and Sister Judith Rosenthal of Northampton, a licensed practical nurse, will be attached to the 104th Tactical Fighter Group, Westover, AFB.

The two sisters will head for Lackland AFB, Fla., for training this week.

FILES SUIT — Mrs. Irene Bolam, a Monroe, N.J. widow named in a recent book as really being the missing aviatrix Amelia Earhart has filed a $1.5 million libel suit against the book's author and its publisher. Mrs. Bolam filed suit in Manhattan State Supreme Court claiming the book damaged her reputation by picturing her as a bigamist, spy and traitor. She also said her foreign radio business suffered because customers would no longer do business with her. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Lindsay Off and Running

John V. Lindsay did not change from Republican to Democrat without a political machine ready to roll in his campaign, either for Governor of New York, or for President, should things look at all inviting to him by next year. Youthful Lindsay supporters especially are on the move.

In New York City his machine is capable of mobilizing 7,000 campaign workers at a moment's notice. Across the country, it has contributed money, manpower and managerial experience to candidates who are now bounded to him. He can call their IOUs at will.

For instance, Lindsay's television consultant, David Garth, established key contacts for the mayor while running media campaigns for Senators Adlai Stevenson III in Illinois and John Tunney in California and for Gov. John Gilligan in Ohio. A structure already exists for making the mayor a power in New York, should he want to try for a favorite son delegation in his home state.

Lindsay-for-president activity is farthest along among youths. At a recent Washington conference, 15 major cities and 300 college campuses reported they are ready to sweep into all the primaries should Lindsay decide to go. They are taking pledges of students willing and anxious to canvass for Lindsay in the event he decides to run.

In its weekly newsletter, the Republican National Committee predicts that Lindsay has torpedoed Senator George McGovern, who will lose the left-liberal wing to the mayor. It adds, "Mayor Lindsay left the Republican Party not because it trampled upon his political views, but because it bruised his ego; not because it was unresponsive to his liberalism, but because it was unresponsive to his ambition."

At this rate, the GOP might build Lindsay up for the left liberals, who are hopelessly lost to the President.

Bloodiest for San Quentin

At the Marin County Court House in California on August 7, 1970, Jonathan Jackson, 17, smuggled guns into a courtroom and touched off the escape attempt in which he was one of four killed. Angela Davis, the one-time philosophy teacher and professed Communist, is awaiting trial, charged with purchasing these guns.

Jonathan's brother, George Jackson, 29, was one of those killed in the recent shootout, "the bloodiest in the 119-year history of San Quentin prison," when a gun was smuggled to him by a visitor. Also killed in the melee were two white convicts and three guards whose throats were slashed.

Jackson and two others had been confronted with murder charges in the death of a Soledad Prison guard who was thrown over a cellblock railing three stories above a concrete floor.

Warden Louis Nelson feared that "we're likely to face this situation again because people on the outside are willing to help prisoners attempt to escape or riot in the name of revolution."

Two Jackson brothers died because guns were smuggled into prisons, one as a gun carrier, the other as a receiver. The outsiders are not helping them, but they are getting them up in shootouts in which they have no chance to escape.

George Jackson, when he was 18, was sentenced to from one year to life imprisonment for stealing $70 from a gas station. He wrote a book, "Soledad Brother," which told of the anger in him building up to a climax. The climax of violence took his life.

David Lawrence Says Outlook for Major War Involving U.S. Seems Remote

WASHINGTON — With the disappearance of many possible causes of friction which can produce wars, the outlook for a major conflict involving the United States seems far removed today.

Red China is beginning to realize the benefits of a closer relationship with America. The Soviet Union appears to be seeking to limit the deployment of nuclear weapons and to achieve better understandings with this country. The Mideast controversy, while serious, is not likely to produce war if Moscow and Washington join together to prevent it.

The present period resembles the years after the major wars of the century — when the emphasis was on ways of preserving peace and living without fear or more conflicts.

What has led up to the latest trend, with the apparent effort to substitute diplomatic negotiation for military threats and counterthreats? The Vietnam War is the answer. The United States has spent billions of dollars to support a principle — that aggression against small nations must not be permitted.

There will be debate, of course, as to what America has accomplished by the sacrifices it has made in Vietnam. The principle enunciated was a defense of the right of self-determination. But now it is being alleged that, since only one candidate is running for the presidency in South Vietnam, the presidential election in that country is being "rigged." The people of South Vietnam, however, have a constitution and have available methods of deciding whether such charges are true.

The quarrel is inside the South Vietnam Republic, and the citizens there have measures of dealing with the issue. This isn't the first time the people of a Democracy have seen headlines in their newspaper claiming that an election in a nation or in states or cities was "rigged," or that a congressional contest in a given district was subject to improper influence. The people are the final judges of the validity of the accusations.

So far as the United States is concerned, the charges of a "rigged" election in South Vietnam will hurt somewhat because our diplomatic effort has been directed toward assuring the choice of a president by a means that would not be the forerunner of one-man control.

There will, however, be a persistent effort to get another election — assuming just one man runs for the presidency — if only to satisfy world opinion. South Vietnam needs a sympathetic feeling everywhere as it starts to function alone under what is called the "Vietnamization" program. It would be a mistake in judgment for President Thieu to allow his own ambition to interfere with the presentation of some plan that would reassure not only his countrymen but foreign peoples generally that South Vietnam, now that it has regained its right of self-determination, has decided to follow the tenets of Democracy and avoid any kind of one-man control.

After the October 3 election has been held, President Thieu could convene a session of the parliament and ask that a decision be reached whether the whole contest was honestly conducted or was "rigged." If public opinion desired it, he could resign to run in a newly arranged election.

Meanwhile, what is the North Vietnamese government going to do? Will it cease its military attacks? Will its chief allies — Red China and the Soviet Union — ask for a halt to the hostilities, or will the war go on after American troops are gradually withdrawn?

Both Moscow and Peking would like to save themselves the expense of assisting North Vietnam. The United States itself does not want to go back into Vietnam again. South Vietnam is expected to achieve a kind of equilibrium which will make possible a peace agreement with Hanoi.

All these contingencies suggest that discord inside South Vietnam is the worst thing that could confront the Republic which has been saved by the United States from takeover by the communists. President Thieu surely must have public relations advisors who will help him see the necessity of sparing his country another period of war with North Vietnam. For the aid of America will be difficult if not perhaps impossible to attain if the "right of self-determination" has been abused by one-man control of the government.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

LIFE GETS PRETTY CONFUSING, DON'T IT?

Today, it is fashionable to be confused. Anyone who isn't neurotic isn't normal. I recall with sorrow the old joke about the two patients who met outside the office of a psychiatrist. "Are you coming or going?" said one. "If I knew," the other one answered, "would I be here?"

I meet neighbors on the street and say: "Hi. How do you feel?" The response (select one): (Lousy) "Fair to middlin'." (Awful) "Have you seen the paper?" "I remember better days." "Tell me, does that man know what he's doing to us?" I am learning to confine greetings to "Hi."

I read my favorite comic strip, "Spirry the Agnew," and he says that the U.S. cannot ping-pong its way into Peking. Then he runs off to Miami and says: "I think it is an excellent idea to make the journey."

The dollar is under an oxygen mask. My President tells me that we are in an economic crisis, but we are winning victory after victory. Lieutenant Calley's conviction has been upheld, but he lives it up in a love nest with a girl friend cooking his dinner. The guys in the stockade, charged with being over the hill, only killed time.

The utilities companies have millions more customers, and furnish less electricity at higher prices. Wall Street is nervous and keeps remembering that it has a river at one end and a cemetery at the other. Buy? Sell? Hang on? Give up? I'd be happy with the war on poverty if Washington told us where to go to surrender.

Our civilization has some kind of fixation with rectangles: our newspapers, our paper currency, photographs, houses, tombstones, books, office buildings, automobiles, even dominoes. I tell you, kid, we're real sick.

B. F. Siner, a master psychologist, claims that the only organisms which know how to live successfully in this environment are the rat, the pigeon and the radish. So, next time around, I'm going to be a pigeon. I've already been a rat.

The governor of Texas makes a big blast about how he's going to hand out raises (and get votes) by defying the President's order to freeze. Then his own attorney-general stands him up, dusts him off, and whispers: It's the law, buster," and the governor pulls his longhorns in to cuff link size.

The mumbler — McCarthy, McGovern, Muskie and Wallace — have begun to emit grunts about the White House. One favors more poetry, the next thinks of himself as a counter-puncher. Muskie is playing Raymond Massey who played Mr. Lincoln, and Wallace, who stopped the buses in Montgomery 16 years ago, is trying to stop them all over the state.

It costs us $250,000,000 to keep Lockheed in the air, but we still have to pay a good price to ride their planes. John Lindsay turns Democrat, which is like watching Joe Bonanno turn Methodist. At night, the streets of New York are so empty that muggers are reduced to mugging muggers.

My sainted mother used to say "Here's a dollar. Get me two pounds of top round, a marrow bone, some parsley and a peck of potatoes. Don't forget to bring back the change." Now I give a hat check girl a buck and after 15 times in the same restaurant, I have paid twice for the hat.

Unless you read the newspapers, it is difficult to find out how many policemen have been indicted for aiming guns at them peace-lovin' Panthers. The Reverend Meany swears the unions will unionize against Nixon, but he forgets that John L. Lewis swore the same thing against FDR and couldn't even carry Pennsylvania for Willkie.

The communes, where hippies joint up the stink and create their own paradise, condescend to live off food stamps furnished by those of us who work. At colleges, study is beginning to cut in on the demonstrations. The only people who know where their next meal is coming from are in jail.

If we could scrape up and use all the oil on the beaches, gasoline would be four cents a gallon including tax. Treasury Secretary John Connally can do a good job, if he figures out how much money we loaned to foreign countries since 1917 in cash and Lend Lease, and save a little space under an airmail stamp to add up how much we got back.

I'm confused, but what the heck, I was confused when times were good.

Jack Anderson Says

Anderson Finds No Evidence Nixon Ordered Witch Hunts

WASHINGTON — Many alarmed Democrats believe President Nixon is using the Justice Department to conduct political witch hunts.

It's whispered that Deputy Attorney General Richard Kleindienst is directing a partisan effort to discredit the Democrats by digging up dirt on them and making it public without the necessary proof.

As evidence, suspicious Democrats cite these developments:

— The Securities and Exchange Commission has accused a Texas wheeler-dealer, Frank Sharp, of promoting a $100 million stock fraud. Yet he was merely fined $6,000 and given a suspended sentence. The Justice Department then granted him immunity from further prosecution in return for his testimony against the big-name Democrats who had accepted his favors. Among those tarnished by Sharp's confessions are Gov. Preston Smith, Texas Speaker Gus Mutscher, former State Attorney General Waggoner Carr and other top Texas Democrats.

— The Justice Department dropped bribery charges against John F. Sullivan, a former Senate aide, in return for his testimony against more imposing Democrats. He delivered a 200-page statement on August 5, 1969, loaded with unsubstantiated charges against Senators Russell Long, D-Va., Vance Hartke, D-Ind., Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., and a host of other prominent Democrats. Although the Justice Department failed to make the charges stick, the names and details were leaked to the press.

— The Justice Department, after getting a perjury conviction against House aide Martin Sweig, offered to help soften his sentence in return for his "cooperation." The inference, if never stated outright, was that he should give evidence against retired speaker John McCormack. Three of McCormack's closest friends — Rubin Epstein, President of Boston's City Bank and Trust; George Feldman, former ambassador to Malta and Luxembourg; and Peter Cloberty, consultant for a Boston engineering firm — also received White House invitations to a luncheon honoring McCormack and Grand Jury subpoenas to testify against him at the same time.

Smear Campaign?

A number of other Democratic leaders, including speaker Carl Albert and House Democratic leader Hale Boggs, have learned that the FBI has been poking into their affairs.

This use of the federal enforcement machinery against Democrats has become a underlying cause for the stiffening hostility between the Democratic Congress and the Nixon administration.

We set out several weeks ago, therefore, to expose this apparent plot to smear the Democrats. We searched in vain, however, for evidence that President Nixon instigated the Democratic witch hunts.

Nor could we find evidence that Kleindienst is directing a smear campaign. Indeed, he has played it so straight that his nickname inside the Justice Department is "Clean Dish."

It's quite true that Richard Nixon has been more partisan than past presidents in administering the government. This spirit has infected lesser authorities who, in their partisan zeal, may have viewed Democrats as less righteous than Republicans. But there is no coordinated campaign that we could find to "get" Democrats.

The initiative to grant Frank Sharp immunity came from Anthony J. P. Farris, the U.S. Attorney in Houston. He flew to Washington with a question-and-answer outline of Sharp's anticipated testimony and argued with Kleindienst to authorize the immunity. Back in Texas, Farris phoned the hesitant Kleindienst and repeated that it would take Sharp's testimony to make a case against the bigger names involved in the scandal. Kleindienst gave his approval but later removed Farris from the case to assure a non-partisan prosecution.

The decision to grant immunity to Sullivan was made by Henry Petersen, the deputy in charge of organized crime. It was based on what appeared to be strong evidence that Sullivan's boss, ex-Sen. Dan Brewster, D-Md., and other senators had taken bribes.

In the Sweig case, Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Ben-Veniste believed Sweig was implicated in a number of political fixes and sought his cooperation. Ben-Veniste sent at least two messages to Sweig through a friend, Werner Bornos. As Bornos recalls it, Ben-Veniste offered to seek a reduced sentence for Sweig in return for his testimony against the speaker. But Ben-Veniste insists he merely offered to bring Sweig's cooperation to the attention of the court.

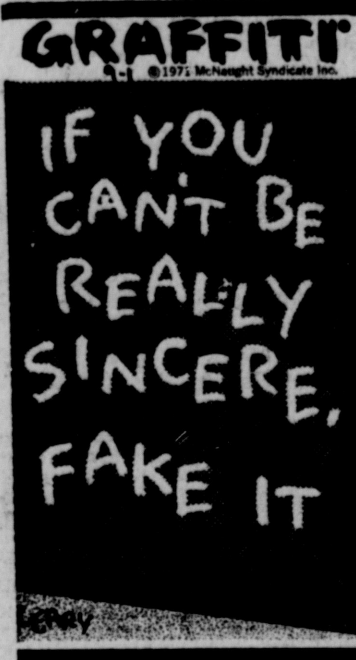

In all three cases, the moves against big-name Democrats originated at the lower levels of the Justice Department.

Spray and Pay

To save crops from ravenous grasshoppers, boll weevil and other predatory insects, the Agriculture Department occasionally sends forth sprayers. But their pesticides, unhappily, fall upon the just and unjust insects alike.

The sprayers, therefore, are followed by payers who pay off the farmers for the destruction of any domestic bugs, such as honey bees.

The Agriculture Department is still trying to tote up the cost, for example, of repelling a grasshopper invasion in Idaho this spring. After the grasshoppers had been thoroughly sprayed, the Agriculture Department was kept busy counting all the bees that had also died and paying the beekeepers for their losses.

Invasion of Privacy in U.S.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We haven't done it yet, but we now have the capability of storing a 12-page dossier on every man, woman and child among the 210 million Americans on a single, 4,500-foot reel of magnetic tape.

The kinds of electronic sensors dropped by U.S. aircraft over the Ho Chi Minh trail to detect North Vietnamese trucks and other vehicles can be adapted for what might be called "personal tracking."

Some are already being used in individual cases to warn of impending heart attacks. They could as well be employed to track our movements, locate us, measure our emotions and thoughts.

We hear a lot about the perils of wire-tapping. But the potential danger is much greater than most civil libertarians ever discuss.

Today we can dispatch computerized information almost instantaneously anywhere in the world. Millions of bits of personal data travel over leased wire circuits. These lines can be tapped, and vast storehouses of information placed in unauthorized hands.

These realities and prospects give you some idea how far the invasion of privacy has gone in this country — and how much farther it may go.

A lot of people are stirred up about the matter, even though its dimensions are only dimly perceived. And one man who is laboring hard to put the public glare on the issue is Prof. Arthur Miller of the celebrated University of Michigan Law School at Ann Arbor.

Miller has written an intricately woven book on the subject, "The Assault on Privacy." He observes that we Americans can hardly move about these days without being taped.

File a tax return, apply for government benefits, seek life insurance or a credit card, try for a home mortgage, fly on a commercial airline, pay in a chain hotel, and you most likely will be leaving your electronic tracks in a computer's memory bank somewhere.

We have not reached the point where all our life records are packed onto one long reel of tape. But we seem to be moving that way.

In most cases, our job, financial, credit and perhaps medical histories are on file. Depending on the range of benefit and services we have sought, and the types of jobs we have tried to qualify for, those histories may be incredibly detailed.

What properly worries Professor Miller, for one thing, is this trend toward centralizing all this immense information in just a few key data banks.

Drawn together, this information may provide very complex profiles of tens of millions of Americans. Obviously, highly useful purposes may be served.

But there are severe handicaps. The danger of putting confidential medical information in the wrong hands is clear. Much financial and other personal data may be subject to varying interpretations, depending on who is using it. The Internal Revenue Service has a right to know your income. In the hands of a business firm, however, that figure can be used for a sales approach you may not welcome.

The selling of personal data (even universities do it) has become a very common practice today. Confidence about your personal attitudes given to a job interviewer or some other legitimate interrogator may be used by some company to get at you subtly. One firm compiles data on doctors so drug companies can promote their products on a personal basis. A lender worried about repayment may check on how you spend your money.

The whole thing is close to "brain-watching." The worst of it, says Miller, is that the people who gather and weigh data make grave errors. They freeze injustice in computer data banks impervious to assault.

Malaya Study: Key To Racial Trouble

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In order to put our own racial problems in perspective it would be wise to look for a moment at an official Malaysian committee study of racial problems at the University of Malaya.

A few excerpts from that committee's report will set the stage:

The "undergraduate community was polarized into two opposing groups along racial lines."

The committee "detects a mutual indifference on the part of one racial group to the feelings, concerns and problems of the other."

"It believes a mutual lack of comprehension and understanding exists between the different racial groups, leading to polarization on serious political issues and even to hostility in times of student crises."

There "is clear evidence that the voting at students' election(s) often tends to follow racial lines."

"The committee is also disturbed by the evidence of lavatory graffiti of a racial character."

(There is "what might be called the barrier of different economic and social values. The bulk of the Malay students come from the rural areas and the majority of the non-Malay students from the urban areas with all the accompanying differences of values and susceptibilities."

This last paragraph is the key. A great deal of the difference between racial groups or sub groups as seen by this reporter in Vietnam, Laos, Thailand, India, Pakistan, Japan, mainland China and in Latin America, Africa and Western Europe stems from cultural, social or economic background and customs which have nothing to do with race.

That these problems are universal is demonstrated by the findings of the Malaysian report.

It serves no purpose to call American society racist as so many reformist speakers do these days.

For the Malaysian report does not lay the blame on one race or another. Look well at the word "mutual" in the quotes above. The committee places the problem squarely on all races. In Malaysia itself, and in parts of adjoining southwest Thailand, where one race or another is predominant, depending on which village you are in, the predominant race is invariably accused of smothering the less-numerous group. A few miles away, in another region, the "smothered" group may be dominant. And here it is accused of oppressing those very people it had accused of racial and religious intolerance and oppression in areas a few miles to the north or south.

Legislator Criticizes State Prison Policies

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "An Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee made the antiquated policy of isolation charge Saturday in a strongly worded lengthy report on the neglect of rehabilitation" government staff study of correctional facilities New York State's prison system, a ranking Democratic legislator charged over the weekend.

State Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg of Brooklyn, ranking prelude to a nightmare if state officials do not modernize the entire correctional system in the state.

Greenberg asserted that state prisons lack fulltime psychiatric services and spend an insufficient amount on education and professional counseling for prisoners.

The legislator called for a state commission to conduct a "massive re-examination" of the administration he serves.

Mrs. Krasnoff Dies, Mystery Commuter

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Mrs. Sarah Krasnoff, the 74-year-old transatlantic mystery commuter who refused to answer questions about their mystery passengers.

Gelfand, whose 14-year-old son Mitchell Howard Gelfand, reportedly made 160 transatlantic air crossings in six months with his grandmother, Mrs. Krasnoff, made the announcement shortly after arriving in Amsterdam today from New York.

In Cleveland, newspaper reports quoted George Sadd, assistant county prosecutor, as saying child stealing charges would be brought against Mrs. Krasnoff if she returned to Cleveland.

Gelfand told newsmen Mrs. Krasnoff died early today in her room at the hotel, where she had been confined since Sunday suffering from exhaustion.

Gelfand did not give the cause of death.

He also refused to shed any light on the reason for Mrs. Krasnoff's reportedly almost daily transatlantic flights between New York and Amsterdam during the past six months.

"That is all I wish to say at the moment," Gelfand said after announcing Mrs. Krasnoff's death.

Officials of the Royal Dutch Airlines, (KLM), were quoted by the Dutch National News Agency, (ANP), Tuesday as saying Mrs. Krasnoff and her grandson made 160 transatlantic crossings by KLM in six months.

County Chapter Of Retired Folk Holds Meeting

NEW PALTZ — The Ulster County Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons held its first meeting recently, with an overflow crowd.

About 150 people arrived at the meeting, held in the First National Bank of Highland, New Paltz Branch, but 50, because of space limitations, had to be turned away, according to a chapter spokesman.

Mrs. Elsie Cussler, state director of AARP, directed a discussion of the purposes of the advantages of membership.

Elected as "pro tem" officers were William A. Tensfeldt, president; Walter Stroh, recording secretary; Elsie Lorenzo, corresponding secretary; Theresia Crabb, treasurer; and Theresia Cafarelli, assistant treasurer.

Of those who attended, 62 signed up for charter membership.

Recover Body From Schoharie

SOUTH JEWETT, N.Y. (UPI) — The body of Roger Rومان, 23, of Valley Stream, L.I., was recovered Tuesday, four days after he drowned when he was swept off an air mattress in rain-swollen Schoharie Creek.

The body was spotted by forest ranger Donald Seccord of Oneonta, at this spot about six miles downstream from where Rومان fell off Saturday.

Two friends floating with Rومان were also immersed, but managed to swim to shore.

GOP Lists Final Plans For Picnic

SAUGERTIES Town of Saugerties Republican Club held its monthly meeting recently at Republican headquarters with President Henry Breitenbach presiding.

Wilson Edmunds, general chairman of the club's Annual Family Picnic announced final plans for the affair. It will be held Sunday, Sept. 12 at 1 p.m. at Cantine's Field, with a rain location at the Glasco Fire Company Hall.

Entertainment will include performances by the K-Ray Trio, country-western music at its finest; Three Days After, today's sounds for the "now" generation and Sing Out-Saugerties, local "up-with-people" organization. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hackett will direct a variety of activities for the youngsters and Saugerties Senior Citizens' Club will be guests.

Congressman Hamilton Fish, State Sen. Jay P. Rollison, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, Sheriff William Martin, Ulster County Legislature incumbents and candidates Charles Scala, Clifford Snyder, Wilson Edmunds and Freeman Lasher will all attend.

Edmunds stated that there will also be a special guest speaker.

Master of ceremonies for the picnic will be Republican Town Chairman Don McCaig. Tickets may be purchased from any Republican Club member or by calling Edmunds.

Conservatives Set Special Meeting Sept. 2.

SAUGERTIES In the Town of Saugerties are asked to attend a town committee meeting to vote on Conservative endorsement for Saugerties town candidates in the upcoming November elections.

The posts to be considered are those of supervisor, town council seats, town justice, town clerk, and superintendent of highways.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 2, at the Flamingo Restaurant. This date was selected since it follows the nominating conventions of both the Republican and Democratic parties, and all nominees may then be considered for possible Conservative endorsement.

Saugerties Conservative Town Chairman Ronald B. Deak is urging registered Conservatives, who have been active in party affairs to attend, so that they may participate directly in the selection of town candidates.

High Woods Labor Day Fair Is Scheduled

HIGH WOODS Preparations are being made by the members and neighbors of the High Woods Reformed Church for their annual Labor Day Fair, Monday, Sept. 6. Even though many of the old carriage stalls that were used for the fair in previous years were destroyed by last winter's heavy snows, the fair is still being planned.

Starting at noon, a roast beef dinner, served family style, will be featured. Snacks, hot dogs, hamburgers, soda and ice cream will be available.

The Ladies Aid will have for sale a large selection of aprons, baby quilts, stuffed animals, crocheted items, and many other handmade articles.

In the old school across the road from the church, woven rag rugs, bags, pillows and place mats will be sold.

Starting at 2 p.m., the K-Ray Trio will play.

Nursery School Will Expand Fall Program

The Community Nursery School, sponsored by the Reformed Church of Saugerties, will expand its program this fall with an afternoon session from 12:15 to 2:45 p.m. each school day.

Parents interested in information concerning the Nursery School are asked to contact Mrs. George Turner, at The Reformed Church of Saugerties, 173 Main Street.

Miss Jane McConnell, a graduate of The State University of New York at Cobleskill, will join the staff of the Community Nursery School as the afternoon session teacher. Miss McConnell has earned an AAS degree in Nursery Education.

Children must be three years of age by Sept. 1 to be eligible for enrollment in the Nursery School. All immunizations must be secured prior to the opening of the school term. Classes are limited to 20 pupils and the Nursery School follows the school calendar of the Saugerties Central School System.

Orientation For Students

WOODSTOCK

Dr. Frank M. Marlow, superintendent of the Ontario Central Schools, has announced the reopening of schools on Wednesday, Sept. 8.

For the first time, a special orientation program for seventh grade students will be given. This orientation program will be held at the Ontario Junior High School, Tuesday, Sept. 7 at 10 a.m.

For the second consecutive year, a kindergarten orientation for the a.m. and p.m. kindergarten children and their parents will be conducted in each of the district's elementary schools on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 7. The a.m. kindergarten children and their parents should arrive at school at 2 p.m. and p.m. kindergarten children and their parents should arrive at 2:30 p.m.

The superintendent indicated that a significant change in the organization of grades 7 through 12 will go into effect at the start of the school year. The Junior-Senior High School will be subdivided into two separate units. The Junior High School consisting of grades 7 and 8 will be headed by newly appointed principal Frank MacMartin; while the Senior High School, grades 9 through 12, will be headed by a director of secondary education, John Stefano, formerly principal of the Junior-Senior High School. Dr. Marlow indicated that the purpose of the separation of the Junior and Senior High School was to "provide our secondary school students with the advantages of a small school, specifically, greater individualization and identification between students and staff, while at the same time, providing them with the advantages of a large school in terms of facilities."

Party to Pick Candidates

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock Independent Party will pick a slate of candidates for the Nov. 2 election at an open nominating convention at Town Hall, Monday (Labor Day), Sept. 6 at 8 p.m.

All Woodstock citizens who are interested in an alternative to the styles of government offered by the established parties are invited to attend and participate.

Voting on the candidates at the convention will be restricted to those persons who are qualified to sign nominating petitions, but all potential voters, registered or registerable for this coming election, are invited to be a part of this meeting of Woodstock's Independent movement.

Civic Directory Is Discussed

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock JayNees recently held its first meeting of the year under the direction of its new president, Marlene Perry and discussed the Civic Directory recently published. It will be on sale at the Market Fair on the playhouse grounds on Sept. 4, and in front of The News Shop throughout the next two weeks.

The directories contain a history of Woodstock, history of the JayNees organization, list of all Woodstock organizations, a telephone index and a "week-at-a-glance" calendar for the coming year.

Profits from the sale aid the JayNees with such community projects as the Teen Age Baby Sitting Course and the Fresh Air Children's Picnic, both held annually.

The JayNees are appreciative of all the sponsors whose cooperation made it possible to publish the directory.

Woodstock JayNees invite all Jaycee wives to attend their meetings and invite them to join the organization. Meetings are held the first Wednesday of each month. For further information, contact Mrs. Ralph Perry.

Poetry Festival Final Reading Slated Friday

WOODSTOCK

The final reading in the 1971 Poetry Festival at Christ's Lutheran Church Fellowship Hall will take place Friday, Sept. 3 at 8:30 p.m.

Taking part will be Marguerite Harris, known to Woodstock residents as poet, editor and anthologist. She will read from her own published books and current poems.

Olga Cabral, author of "Cities and Deserts" and "The Evaporated Man" will also participate. A member of the Poet's Cooperative in New York City, she is the widow of Aaron Kurtz, well known Yiddish poet.

Gomer Rees will also join the readers. A Lutheran organist and choirmaster, he is an active participant with younger avant-garde poets.

There will be no admission.

Meyer Ends Army Tour

Major Karl R. Meyers, 34, son of Dr. and Mrs. Douw S. Meyers of 44 Maiden Lane, Kingston, ended his tour of duty in the Army Aug. 20, and will return to his former civilian occupation as a member of the department of pathology in the Veterans Administration Hospital at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in Philadelphia.

Major Meyers was last stationed at the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington, D.C. He had also served as a consultant in neuromuscular disease at Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington. The major entered the Army in August of 1968. Meyers holds the Army Commendation Medal.

In other Army news, Private Stephen Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wagner of Briggs Highway, Ellenville, has completed eight weeks of basic training at Fort Campbell, Ky. Private Joseph M. Noto Jr., whose parents live on Plattekill Road in Marlboro, has completed nine weeks of advanced individual infantry training at Fort Polk, La.

Meanwhile, at Camp Smith in Peekskill, Douglas A. Constant of 236 Elmendorf Street, Kingston, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve on Friday.

Constant is an engineering technician for Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. He is a member of Headquarters Company of the 865-854th Engineering Battalion.

Commissioning is the culmination of the year long Officer Candidate School conducted by the Academy. The program includes two 15-day summer sessions at Camp Smith and 12 intervening weekends at local branch schools. These schools are located at New York City, Buffalo, Syracuse and Troy.

Maj. Davis Records 500 Viet Flights

Marine Major James M. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davis and husband of Mrs. Barbara Davis, all of Fleischmanns, has completed his 500 combat flight mission while serving with the First Marine Air Wing in Vietnam.

In other Marine Corps news from the Navy's Fleet Home Town Newscenter in Great Lakes, Ill., First Lieutenant Gordon M. Strauss, husband of the former Miss Antoinette H. Henderson of Bearsville, has reported for duty at the Marine Corps Air Station in Beaufort, S.C.

He is a 1965 graduate of St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H., and a 1969 graduate of Brown University, Providence, R.I.

PFC Paul W. Mushlit of Ridge Road, Shokan, was promoted to his present rank upon completion of Individual Combat Training at the Marine Corps Service School, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

PFC Robert Irons, son of Mrs. Helen McMichael of 5 Fisk Street in Red Hook, was graduated from Aviation Electronics Technicians School at the Memphis Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn. During his 20-week course he studied the theory of radar, alternating current, transmitters and digital computer theory.

Lance Corporal Bruce R. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Brown of 99 Gage Street, Kingston, has reported for duty with the Third Marine Division on Okinawa. Brown is a graduate of Kingston High School.

Bonder Joins In Recovery Of Apollo 15

Navy Senior Chief Petty Officer Samuel Bonder, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bonder of Ellenville, participated in the recovery operations for Apollo 15 in the Pacific aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Okinawa.

His ship was the primary recovery ship for the Apollo's splashdown 300 miles from Hawaii, and carried divers, helicopters and equipment necessary for the recovery of the astronauts.

In other Navy news, Navy Hospitalman Apprentice Ricky E. Hicks, a graduate of Red Hook Central High School and a resident of Rhinebeck, was graduated from the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Navy Seaman Paul D. Shultis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Shultis Jr. and husband of the former Penny Perry, all of Pine Hill, is now deployed in the Mediterranean Sea aboard the gasoline tanker USS Nespean.

His ship has completed a 20-day tour of the Greek cities Corfu, Rhodes and Athens. An additional stop is scheduled for Souda Bay on the Island of Crete.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened mixed in moderate trading today.

Analysts said the market has entered into a consolidation period following the big leap forward recently which came on the heels of President Nixon's Aug. 15 announcement of new economic reforms to help bolster the economy.

Shortly after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.14 at 897.93. Advances topped declines, 125 to 110, among the 353 issues crossing the tape.

Among the electronics, General Electric surrendered $\frac{1}{4}$ to 61% while Sperry Rand fell $\frac{1}{4}$ to 30%. Texas Instruments lost $\frac{1}{4}$ to 103%.

IBM, edged up $\frac{1}{4}$ to 304% after plunging 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ points in the past two sessions. Control Data and National Cash Register added $\frac{1}{4}$ each to 59 and 42% respectively.

Republic dipped $\frac{1}{4}$ to 26, but Jones & Laughlin climbed $\frac{1}{4}$ to 15% in their group.

In the oils, Jersey Standard eased $\frac{1}{4}$ to 70%. Phillips picked up $\frac{1}{4}$ to 31%, and Standard of California rose $\frac{1}{4}$ to 54%.

Hearing Set in Monticello On Two Jail Escapees

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI) — A hearing has been rescheduled for tonight against a background of protest in the case of two young men who escaped from the Sullivan County Jail allegedly by overpowering a guard.

The hearing was originally scheduled for Tuesday evening but was postponed. At the same time, some 65 persons, the majority of them blacks, demonstrated on the steps of the Sullivan County Court House here, then marched to the county jail and shouted support for the two prisoners who turned themselves in to state police last Saturday, two days after escaping.

The demonstrators, led by Monticello social worker David Joseph, questioned the official version of the alleged escape and demanded that the state investigate the jail operation. There were no arrests and no injuries during the protests at the courthouse and jail. The case involves Dwight Folsom, 18, of New Albany, Miss., and Roy Westby, 20, of the Bronx. Sheriff Raymond Dunn said the two used sharp pieces of steel fashioned from bed-

Sewage Plant Ordered at Peekskill Site

NEW YORK (UPI) — Standard Brands Inc. has been ordered by a state Supreme Court justice to begin construction Wednesday on a sewage and waste treatment facility at its Charles Pt. plant in Peekskill.

The order was issued Monday by Justice Wilfred A. Waltemade in response to a suit filed against the food processing and packaging company by Henry L. Diamond, commissioner of the state Department of Environmental Conservation. It also directed that the treatment facility be completed by April 15, 1972.

Diamond had accused the concern of dumping untreated sewage and industrial wastes into the Hudson River.

NYSTA Force Out On Strike

OSWEGO, N.Y. (UPI) — It was union pitted against union today as the tiny Professional Staff Association (PSA) representing employees of the New York State Teachers Association's (NYSTA) office work force went on strike against the 105,000-member NYSTA.

The PSA has some 60 members manning eight NYSTA field offices around the state and at the teacher's union headquarters in Albany.

The strike came as the contract expired despite five months of intensive negotiations, said PSA President James Conti, in explaining the action to some 900 delegates at a teachers association workshop here Tuesday.

Conti accused the teachers of denying its union professional staff members "benefits those workers are seeking for teachers throughout the state." The president of the association's employees' group predicted that all of NYSTA's field offices would be closed by picketing today because of NYSTA's "inability to practice what it preaches."

A spokesman said both wage and benefit issues are unresolved. NYSTA reportedly is offering its office employees a 4.6 per cent wage increase in the first year of a proposed three-year contract and is also freezing staff jobs.

Conti scheduled a press conference for 3 p.m. today on the 34th front steps of NYSTA's headquarters at 152 Washington Ave., Albany.

CHARLES HOEHING JR.

THOMAS TOMSHAW

Lt. Hoehing, Sgt. Tomshaw

Policemen Start 25th Years

KINGSTON Two Kingston police officers have started their 25th year as members of the department. Lieutenant Charles A. Hoehing Jr., of 303 East Chester Street, began his 25th year on Aug. 1, and Sergeant Thomas Tomshaw of 64 Florence Street entered his 25th year as a police officer today.

Hoehing was appointed a special officer May 1, 1946 and received appointment to a regular post Aug. 1, 1947. He became a sergeant Sept. 18, 1953, and was appointed lieutenant Feb. 16, 1968. He joined the force soon after his discharge from military service. He left Kingston in September, 1940 with Battery A, 156th Field Artillery with rating of sergeant. Later he was transferred to the 220th Field Artillery, 44th Division. He served in Central Europe, Northern France and the Rhineland. He was discharged Oct. 9, 1945 with rank of first sergeant. Prior to joining the police force he was a heavy equipment operator for the Board of Public Works. He is married to the former Ida Mazzuca, a Kingston native. They have three children, Kathryn Schlichter and Jayne and Charles Hoehing Jr. Tomshaw was appointed patrolman Sept. 1, 1947, and was promoted to sergeant in 1955. He served with the U.S. Marines during World War II in the South Pacific and was discharged with the rank of staff sergeant May 10, 1946. He is married to the former Frances Tierney. They have one daughter, Frances.

The total residential collection was $3,196,93; Special Gifts $1,947; and Industry and Business $1,703.

Returns from the county include: Esopus, $1,738.29; Gardiner, $1,442.31; Hurley, $502.62; West Hurley, $996.24; Town of Kingston, $153.55; Lloyd, $548.99; Marlborough, $1,919; Marboro, $552.20; New Paltz, $1,948.92; Olive, $1,661; Plattekill, $712.52; Rochester, $1,202.31; Rosendale, $883.04; Saugerties, $5,475.76; Shandaken, $1,131; Shawangunk, $1,708.26; Town of Ulster, $3,675.62; Wawarsing, $2,722.28; Woodstock $593.

Townships that Bettered Their Best included, Esopus, Gardiner, Town of Kingston, Marlborough, Olive, Rochester, Saugerties, Town of Ulster, Plattekill and Rosendale.

Wawarsing, although short of its goal, exceeded last years amount by some $400.

Towns which exceeded their goal were Esopus, Gardiner, West Hurley, Marlborough, Olive, Plattekill, Saugerties and the Town of Ulster.

Special mention has been made of the Varsity Club of New Paltz Central High School for conducting the campaign in that township under the direction of John Ford, advisor.

Woodstock Youth Center assisted in the door-to-door drive in the Town of Woodstock under the direction of Richard Melert, advisor.

Pavlovich said that some of the town totals are still incomplete and that final returns may place some of these in the "Better Than Best" or equaling the goal category. He also said that those residents of the city, who would like to improve this showing and those who were not reached in the campaign, may still make a contribution either by contacting the city chairman, Michael Pagliaro at 3 Circle Drive, Hurley, or by sending a contribution direct to the American Cancer Society office at 400 Broadway, Kingston.

Boiceville Reunion Set Labor Day

WEST SHOKAN Plans are well formulated by President Thomas Fickus for the 61st annual holding of the Boiceville Reunion, or Labor Day Picnic, which will begin at noon at the Lester S. Davis Park in West Shokan.

The refreshments will again be the charge of the Shokan Boy Scout Troop. Features will again include entertainment by Harry Siemsen, Mrs. Barbara Moncure and other area musicians and singers. Town historian Vera Sickler will speak on plans for the Town of Olive's 150th founding anniversary, which will occur in 1973. Also expected to be present and speak are Sheriff William B. Martin and Kenneth Reenen.

LoPresti Is Named by Mountain Club

OLIVEREA Phillip LoPresti, former chairman of Mid-Hudson Chapter of the Adirondack Mountain Club from 1967-70, and presently its conservation committee chairman, and a member of the statewide conservation committee of Adirondack Mountain Club, was elected secretary of the constitutional council for the forest preserve at its annual meeting at Olivera. LoPresti's term as secretary will run for two years.

The constitutional council for the forest preserve is a conservation organization mainly concerned with the forest preserve and Adirondack Park Agency, which it, along with Adirondack Mountain Club and many other organizations and individuals, was instrumental in bringing into being as law on June 8 of this year.

"The most important work of CCFP is following the work of the Adirondack Park Agency created this year by the foresight and dedicated effort of individuals and organizations which recognized the urgent need for the agency, and continuing to follow the work of the Department of Environmental Conservation and related events in the Adirondack Park and informing the public about them," said LoPresti.

LoPresti also stressed the importance of seeing that young people in school today have knowledge and awareness of the values at stake in the tremendous forest, water, wildlife, aesthetic, and recreational resources that citizens of New York State possess in their Forest Preserve and Park.

Woodstock Dems Meet Thursday

An open open meeting for Democrats and supporters of Democratic candidates in the November election will be held Thursday night, Sept. 2, at Deanie's in Woodstock.

A spokesman for the group, in announcing the meeting time at 8 o'clock, said the session is designed to unite effectively in order to bring about victory in the 1971 elections.

Accused in Dispute

Accused of threatening a woman during a dispute Tuesday, John Lee Wilkerson, 42, of 248 Catherine Street, Kingston was arrested by police and later released in $250 bail pending an appearance before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. The complainant was Gloria Lewis of the Catherine Street address, according to police records.

'Senior' Program Being Formulated

A program for senior citizens with a broad spectrum of activities is currently being formulated through an appropriation of $4,500 from the Ulster County Legislature.

The county will be reimbursed half of this amount, or $2,250 from the State Recreation Council for the Elderly of the State Education Department when the program becomes operational.

The contract agent for the county will be the Ulster County Senior Citizens Alliance Inc., an organization formed from senior citizens throughout the county.

Under the terms of the agreement an advisory committee was formed, including Legislators Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) majority leader; Richard D. Nace, (R-Dist. 2); Glenn A. Debrosky, (R-Dist. 7); Roger W. Mabie, (R-Dist. 7); minority leader, and Orrie R. Riehl (D-City).

Arrangements underway include the incorporation of the alliance and the filing of the state aid application by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, (R-Dist. 8).

The program will include bus trips to recreational and educational sites instruction classes in crafts, basket weaving, decorating, paper flower making, painting, etching, sculpture and other aids that may become profitable to both the trainee and the organization. Also involved could be the training of aides to help the handicapped and shut-ins.

The program is open to all senior citizens whether members of an organized group or not. However, the organized clubs, whether or not members of the Alliance, will serve as organizers of trips, transportation and instructional classes. The fund appropriated will be available for the period ending Dec. 31, 1971.

John Smith Bailey of Buena Vista Avenue, Wallkill, Council president is listed in the state aid application as the leader directly responsible for the program. He is also president of Wallkill Community Senior Citizens Club. He has a BS degree, cum laude from City College of New York, has an MS in business administration and taught gem identification for one year in an adult education program.

The steering committee includes Bailey and Dye, who is chairman of the Legislature's Frank Fabbie, deputy clerk of nant, vice president; Mrs. Mollie Fiedler, recording secretary; Joseph Lorenzo, council treasurer and include Mrs. Antoinette Ten-corresponding secretary.

School Board to Meet

KINGSTON The Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated will be meeting for the second time in two weeks when it conducts its regular September meeting on Thursday, beginning at 8:30 p. m., at the George Washington School.

The August meeting of the Board of Education was held last Thursday. The date had been changed to accommodate the large number of persons who vacation during the early weeks of August. With its meeting this Thursday, the Board will resume its regular monthly schedule.

Most of the Board's pre-school opening business was conducted at the August meeting. Among the items scheduled to be on the sparse September meeting agenda is the appointment of a new dean of women students at Kingston High School.

At the August meeting, meanwhile, several bids were awarded and a number of resignations and appointments were approved.

The Board authorized purchase of 50 record players, seven opaque projectors and 30 16mm sound motion picture projectors from Bouton's Audio-Visual Sales, at a low bid price of $24,124.00. The Board also decided to trade in a number of record players and projectors, at high bid of $2,150, submitted by Bouton's. Three other firms submitted bids.

Five separate firms were awarded bids for industrial arts equipment. A.R.C. Tool Company was awarded the contracts for wood lathes and a planer, at a total cost of $2,355. R. B. Wing and Son, Inc., submitted the low bids for a multi-purpose furnace, portable plane and vertical milling machine, at a total cost of $2,502.09. Other bids were awarded to Broadhead-Garrett for a sander/grinder finishing machine, $86.00; McKilligan Industrial Supplies, for a ceramic kiln, $438.10 and Walter Smith Welding for a gas welding and cutting outfit, $124.13.

Bids were awarded to three firms for the purchase of athletic equipment for the Junior High School football team, at a total cost of $3,615.84.

Simpson Paving, Inc., was awarded a contract to pave 1,680 square yards of the Miron J. Michael Junior High School parking lot, at a cost of $5,000.

Hess Oil Company was awarded bids for the purchase of No. 4 and No. 6 fuel oil. Kingston Coal and Oil, Inc., submitted the low bid for pea coal and Kingston Oil Supply Corp., was awarded the bid for No. 2 fuel oil.

The Board of Education also approved a number of professional appointments. Named to posts at various schools in the district were: Bruce A. Aldrich, physical education teacher; Mrs. Holly Z. Bruce, German teacher; Edward A. Buckley, science teacher; Mrs. Diane S. Cook, elementary librarian; Robert P. Cunningham, social studies teacher; Miss Ruth Herschaft, elementary art teacher; Theodore C. Hirsch, mathematics teacher; George S. Hucker, elementary teacher; Miss Barbara L. Kachura, elementary teacher; Mrs. Dorothy M. Rogers, elementary librarian; Parley Rogers, reading teacher; Miss Jacquelyn Anderson, mathematics teacher; Timothy J. Cranston, elementary teacher; Mrs. Marilyn Mills, social case worker; Thomas A. Natoli Jr., science teacher; Allan A. Pritchett, business education teacher; Mrs. Mary Boos Snitzer, art teacher; Allan Stein, English teacher and Mrs. Ilona Spada, science teacher.

Resignations were accepted for Richard L. Cowin, Leo J. Doheny, Nasser Habeeb, Mrs. Anthoula Katsoulis, Douw S. Meyers Jr., Virginia K. Ottobre, Virginia E. Uhl and Paul Ring.

Appointed as non-instructional employees were Sterling C. Atkins, Charles J. Brown, Wayne L. Leedecke and Richard Wells as cleaners and Mrs. Joan Brown, Mrs. Catherine Barnett, Mrs. Katherine Whiffen, Rosemarie Krakowski, Patricia Sickles, Mrs. Jeanette M. Nagele, Kathy A. America, Marilyn G. Gorman and Kay C. Shreve, as clerical workers. Leaves of absence were granted to Miss Kathleen Hoff and Dean F. Short.

Gallery, Funding Mark Woodstock Artist Meeting

WOODSTOCK New York State Council on the Arts funding and turn over of the gallery building were announced at the membership meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association recently.

Miss Aileen Cramer, chairman of the board announced that the Artists Realty Corporation has turned over the gallery building to the association and for the second year the state Council on the Arts has awarded the association a grant of $12,000.

The Artists Realty Board was formed in 1919 by Birge Harrison, Carl Eric Linden, Andrew Dasburgh, Henry McFee and Norman T. Boggs, all artists with the exception of Boggs. The fledgling group were convinced to be a haven for the arts and saw the importance and necessity for providing the artists with a place for exhibitions.

In an effort to free the Woodstock Artists Association from the minutiae of business problems, the Realty Corporation was kept separate from the Association, and up until the present, the organizations operated as two distinct entities.

The trustees of the corporation for the last several years were Jane Jones, Will Eisner and Gene Ludins. The trio administered the financial affairs of the Association and maintained the Gallery structure. The Association board engaged in program planning and exhibitions and conducted the Graphic Workshop.

Arthur B. Ewig, attorney for the Corporation, amplified the details of the turnover. In the Association, a non-profit organization, is now free to plan for the fee of $1, for greater growth.

The three original trustees in addition to four new trustees who are Belmont Town, Anton Refregier, Caroline Wilson and Adolph Heckerroth.

man, Gwen Davis and Grace Swank.

DOUBLE REWARDS — Woodstock Artists Association officials discuss recent developments at membership meeting. Participating are (L-R) Arthur B. Ewig, Kingston attorney for the association; Mrs. Jane Jones, Eugene Ludins, trustees, Miss Aileen Cramer, chairman of the association board and Will Eisner retired businessman and painter. Eisner, also a trustee of the association at 91 is the oldest member of the association. New York State Council on the Arts grant for $12,000 and turn over of the gallery building to the association were cause for celebration. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Jane Jones was the moving spirit behind the turnover of the building. For a number of years she conducted correspondence with the original stockholders or their heirs urging them to convey their stock so the Gallery might ultimately become the property of the Woodstock Artists Association. Her successful efforts bore fruit and at a vote of two-thirds of the stockholders, the change was affected.

The New York State Council on the Arts grant will enable the Association to employ a full-time fund-raiser and public relations director with a view to obtaining funds for the projected growth plan. The objectives of the plan are expansion of the present building, the development of a permanent collection and the publication of a brochure.

Several reports by committee chairmen were made, all of

Two Complete Engineer Tests

ALBANY Louis S. DuBois, of 113 Vineyard Avenue in Highland, and Gupta Om Prakash, of 5 Cherry Lane in Saugerties, were two of 405 candidates who successfully completed the latest examination in professional engineering given in April.

"Traditionally, engineers have risen to meet the challenges of their time," said Elliott E. Leuallen, assistant commissioner for professional education. "One of the greatest challenges today is the unsatisfactory condition of the environment. These new licensees, in their quest for innovative engineering programs that will improve the environment, will be mindful of the public concern for decent, livable cities, and unspoiled countryside."

Other engineers to pass the examination were James William Keller, Lester Drive, R.D. 2, and Alan William Manning, Mount View Lane, both of Glens Falls.

Another Arrest In Investigation Of Burglaries

Kingston police have recorded another arrest in connection with the intensive investigation of recent area burglaries, it became known when William S. Bassett, 24, whose address was listed as 766 Albany Avenue, was booked on a charge of criminal possession of stolen property third degree.

Bassett, who was scheduled for court appearance, is accused of having in his possession a public address system allegedly stolen from a cabin in Krumville during a recent burglary. The arrest was made by Detective Joseph Feraca and Special Detective Keith Schlichter of the burglary detail.

Bazaar Set In Rosendale On Weekend

ROSENDALE

Committees have formulated plans for the annual bazaar to be conducted by St. Peter's Church of this village on Saturday and Sunday Sept. 4 and 5.

Peter Benecasa is general chairman of the event, and James McNamara is co-chairman.

The bazaar will be held on the church grounds and many features are planned for the two days. A food and bake sale will be held on Saturday starting at 10 a.m., featuring a wide display of home-baked foods and other items.

A total of $2,200 in awards will be presented in addition to other awards each night between 9:30 and 11 p.m.

The committee workers will erect numerous attractively decorated booths which will have a large display of items that will be offered for sale.

The event is held annually and in past years it has been attended by hundreds of area residents.

Schaller's to Display Fastest Racing Cars

KINGSTON Schaller's Automotive Service Center at 16 Lucas Avenue will feature some of the world's fastest racing cars when the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's "Meet the Hot Ones" display arrives in Kingston on Thursday.

As a special treat, a world famous race car driver will be on hand at Schaller's to describe his high performance vehicle.

Five authentic racing machines will be on display at the local tire and service center, including the "Spirit of America — Sonic I," the turbo-jet-powered, 34-foot-long machine that held the world land speed record of 600.601 miles an hour from 1965 to 1970.

Among the other racing cars that will be open for public inspection is Dan Gurney's rear-engine Indianapolis Eagle, which saw competition at the Indy 500 this year and at the recently inaugurated Ontario 500 in California. The car develops 650 horsepower in its turbo-powered Offenhauser engine, and can attain speeds of 215 miles an hour.

For fans of the Canadian-American (Can-Am) Challenge Cup sports car series, the "Hot Ones" exhibit features New Zealander Denis Hulme's Chevy-powered sports car. The 650 horsepower, "Group seven" machine has recorded speeds of up to 200 miles an hour, and is one of the fastest racing cars in the world due to its lightweight construction and unlimited engine displacement.

Drag racing giant Don Garlits recorded speeds up to 235 miles an hour in under seven seconds in the AA fuel "rail" that will be shown at Schaller's. Garlits' dragster runs on a combination of fuels, made up of nitro-methane and alcohol, and develops 426 horsepower.

Swede Savage, among the most popular drivers in the Trans American Championship races, has driven his Plymouth "cuda" at 160 to 170 miles an hour at Watkins Glen. The car will be on display at Schaller's.

Also featured at the Lucas Avenue shop will be movies of the world's greatest racing events — LeMans, Daytona, Sebring, Indianapolis and the land speed record run.

The display, which opens tomorrow, will conclude on Saturday at 5 p.m.

Traffic Deaths Great Hazard For the Young

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Driving or riding with other youths is the greatest hazard standing between American young people and reaching adulthood.

The National Transportation Safety Board in a report on young drivers issued Monday said 17,700 young people between the ages of 15 and 25 were killed in traffic accidents in the United States in 1969.

This was 7,400 more than would have died if their fatality rate had been the same as that of drivers 25 and older. Young people in the age bracket made up only 21 per cent of the driving population but were involved in 34 per cent of the fatal accidents.

The board said the highway death rate for youths has been rising constantly for 17 years.

"Driving and riding with other young drivers constitute the greatest hazard to survival which American youth must pass successfully to reach adulthood," the board said.

DAN GURNEY'S "INDY EAGLE"

Hidden Valley Popular

WHITEPORT Hidden Valley, which has proved to be a popular center for picnics, swimming, boating, fishing and camping facilities this summer, has also "scored" with area summer camps as a change-of-pace activity, according to Mrs. Mickey Duncan, recreational complex located off Route 32 near Rosendale.

Two are summer camps have especially enjoyed the Hidden Valley facilities this summer, according to Mrs. Duncan. The Goddard Riverside Camp in Rifton has scheduled a number of outings for its youngsters, aged 8-14, including overnight campouts, swim parties, cookouts and all-day outings.

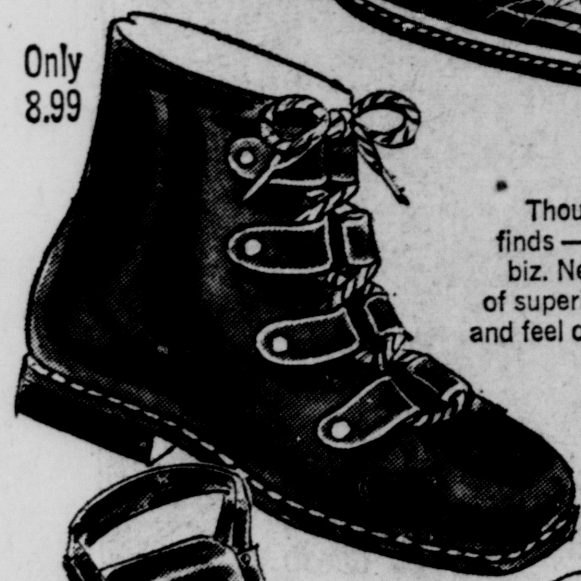

Camp Trywoodie of Hyde Park has also scheduled several overnight campouts at Hidden Valley for more than 60 boys and girls in the 11-14 age group.

Other groups which have scheduled outings at Hidden Valley are the St. Cabrini Home in Esopus, and Camp Unity in Rosendale. Hidden Valley has also served as the headquarters for three area recreational summer swim programs: Port Ewen, Tillson-Rosendale and Hurley-West Hurley, with youngsters being bussed in daily to participate in Hidden Valley's swim program, under the direction of Al DiBernardo.

Kingston Savings Displays Art Work

KINGSTON the Detroit Institute of Fine Art; in the U.S. Fine Arts renowned artist, will display one of his works of art at the Kingston Savings Bank's Wall Street office today through Friday, according to bank President Clifford A. Henze. Pachner's painting will be reproduced as a silk screen by Woodstock artist Gerry Jerominek for the "Collectors Choice" event, to be held at the Woodstock Gallery, Sunday, Sept. 5, from 5 p.m. through 7 p.m.

The Collectors Choice is a fund-raising event sponsored by the Woodstock Artist Association. Tickets entitle the holder to a cocktail party, the silk screen by Jerominek, an opportunity to win original paintings by numerous Woodstock artists and a beautiful full-size print by John McClellan.

A Guggenheim fellow, recipient of two Ford Foundation awards for painting (1959-1964), and a grantee of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, William Pachner has made his home in Woodstock since 1945. A native of Czechoslovakia, he studied at the Academy of Arts and Crafts in Vienna and came to the United States at the outbreak of World War II. He has had more than a dozen one-man shows in New York City and has exhibited by invitation in all the major national shows, including the Carnegie International, the Corcoran Biennial, the Whitney Museum Annuals, the Pennsylvania Academy and homelands.

He is represented in the permanent collections of the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Rose Gallery of Bradeis University, the Butler Institute of American Art, the Fort Worth Museum, Iowa State Teachers College; the Joseph Hirshorn, Lee A. Ault, Walter P. Chrysler and many other distinguished public and private collections. His one man retrospective exhibition was organized and circulated nationally by the American Federation of Arts, which also published a monograph on the artist written by Kenneth Donahue, director of the Los Angeles County Museum. In 1969 he was appointed to the faculty of the Art Student's League Summer School in Woodstock.

Racial Pay Parity

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—The Standard Bank of South Africa today began paying its colored (mixed blood), Indian and Chinese employees as much as white employees.

A bank spokesman said the decision affected "about 200" nonwhite employees working in the township and African homelands.

New Chair Lift Proposed For Minnewaska Facility

NEW PALTZ recently to view the proposed facilities of the popular ski resort were also discussed. Members of the Ski Minnewaska advisory board met at chair lift, the mountainside facility. Expansion of the overall

PHILLIPS EXPLAINS PLANS.

It was noted that the new chair lift will be 2,050 feet long with a vertical drop of 380 feet, and will lie to the northwest of the present T-bar area.

At least three new trails will be cut this year at Ski Minnewaska, each approximately 3,500 long and 250 feet wide. They will be suitable for novice, intermediate and advanced skiers.

With the new facilities being planned, additional snowmaking operations will be required. Advisory board members indicated that there is a sufficient supply of water in the Peterskill stream to handle the snow-making.

Expansion of the parking lot adjacent to the Ski-Minnewaska Lodge will also be completed by the winter season.

Ken Phillips Jr., area manager of Ski Minnewaska, presented the information to the advisory board members.

Channel Master Sales Display

ELLENVILLE is compact, and requires very little counter space. The first sales display that dramatically demonstrates antenna rotators in action is being offered to TV and appliance dealers by Channel Master.

The action rotor display adds impetus to showroom sales by providing see-for-yourself proof of the Channel Master Automatic Colorator's pinpoint aiming accuracy for tuning color pictures. Since many customers are unaware of the vast improvement color rotators make in TV reception, it is an ideal sales tool.

When the customer turns the rotor dial to a station marker, the miniature antenna turns, the color sharpens and the picture on the display TV screen snaps into perfect focus. The display

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — The Baptist Home of Brooklyn will hold a dinner in Poughkeepsie Sept. 23 to unveil its plans for relocation in Rhinebeck, according to the Rev. Robert Burdette Rose, resident director of Rhinebeck Relocation Development.

Those invited to hear of the moving plans will include: area Baptist clergy, some governmental officials, the press, other interested parties.

Plans were given the green light in June by the Board of Trustees to proceed with the construction of the $3.75 million project at the Brookmeade estate on Route 308 east of the village.

This "home for the aging" plans to house about 100 persons. Many are in their early 60s and choose this form of communal living over maintaining individual homes.

The architectural plans for the main building call for nine connected buildings in three main fan-shaped rows with a central office and medical clinic.

It will be located somewhere on the 74-acre estate with a thought to future expansion. Brookmeade was purchased by the Baptist Home about a year ago for $125,000.

There are presently about 60 residents at the Brooklyn home, primarily from the New York metropolitan area and Long Island.

The emphasis will be

Transportation Bids Rejected By Board

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Board of Education rejected all bids for transportation of the handicapped at its meeting this week after it had previously accepted one.

A delegation of parents of the handicapped children of the district appeared at the regular meeting urging the retention of Patrick File as the contractor. He was not the low bidder.

But the Beckwith bid, which had been approved, was subsequently withdrawn, with school opening now only a week away.

Thus, the Board decided to re-bid the route Thursday with the opening for Tuesday.

Handicapped children are transported to BOCES centers for special classes.

In other action, a list of playground and cafeteria aides was approved, as well as a contract with Honeywell systems.

In regard to the effect of the wage-price freeze on the Board contract with the Teachers' Association, District Principal Ralph Steeves said he had recommended to the Board that no action be taken. None has been.

He told The Freeman that he had received some notice from the wage-price review board and interpreted it as meaning that deferred increases were not permitted and that the contract ratified this summer would be in effect.

It was signed Aug. 16 by the Board, but the salaries would not be in effect until Sept. 1. Steeves said he would wait and see what specific guidelines

School Head Addresses Rotary Club

RHINEBECK — Edward F. Dohrenwend, director of the new Pius XII school at Holy Cross campus, Rhinecliff, addressed the Rhinebeck Rotary Club recently on specifics of the program.

The Holy Cross campus is located on the former Cardinal Farley Military Academy grounds, and will treat youthful persons with a background of narcotics problems.

Brother Daniel Redmond, a special worker at the campus, was also numbered among the guests at the Beekman Arms luncheon.

Other guests included Paul Schiede, Kingston; Al Pierce, East Greenbush; Tony Ragonetti, Hyde Park; Rowland Sharpe, Rhinebeck; and John Beal, Newburgh.

Dohrenwend indicated to the Rotarians the reason for the choice of the Cardinal Farley site for the camp for those 12 to 16 years of age and gave a description on future plans as presently envisioned.

Rotarians were reminded of a Sept. 20 meeting at the Dinsmore Overlook Restaurant.

Local Recruiters Set 100-Mile Hike To Raise Funds for Vets Memorial

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Four Armed Forces recruiters will step off on a 100-mile march Sept. 30 to highlight a $10,000 fund raising campaign by the Kingston Veterans Association for the establishment of a permanent veterans memorial on the green at city hall.

The four recruiters, now rapidly trying to work themselves into shape for the march, include Marine Staff Sergeant Donald R. Misner, Navy Petty Officer First Class Kenneth Thorpe, Air Force Staff Sergeant Michael Bordick and Army Sergeant Frank Frazier. Sgt. Frazier is an advisor to the Army Reserve unit on Flatbush Avenue. He's filling in for Army Recruiter Staff Sgt. Gary L. Flaherty, who, due to a recent operation, will be unable to make the march.

The recruiters will begin at the recruiting offices at Broadway and Maiden Lane, head out the Col. Chandler Drive to the traffic circle and then to West Hurley on Route 28. They will then head for Woodstock along Route 375, turn for Saugerties on Route 212, return to Kingston via Route 9W and south.

The southern swing will take them to New Paltz and Plattekill on Route 32, back to Highland through Modena along Route 208 and then up 9W to Kingston. They plan to be back in Kingston at between 6 and 8 p.m. on Oct. 1, covering the 100-mile route in between 33 and 35 hours, nonstop.

"We figure we can cover about 3.2 miles per hour with a five-minute rest stop," Sgt. Misner says. The march will be continuous, the sergeant added.

The marchers will carry a pack with medical supplies, two canteens of water and ammunition pouches...full of clean socks.

Misner and Thorpe, who admit they've been in better shape, have been our running for the past week, getting their legs set for the long walk. "You just can't get up from a desk and walk 100 miles," Thorpe said, sitting behind his desk.

The march was the recruiters' idea but the memorial has long been a goal of the Kingston Veteran's Association. "We've been working on this for the past 20 years," Joseph E. Sills Jr., chairman of the KVA fund raising committee, told the next two months.

The $10,000 will be used to purchase and erect two 38-foot aluminum flag poles on the site of the city hall at 408 Broadway. The veterans group, through William Hanley, who co-chairs Sills' committee, petitioned the Common Council this spring for the establishment of a permanent memorial at city hall. The legislation passed unanimously in the Council and was signed into law by Mayor Francis R. Koenig in June. The city is expected to abandon the old city hall for the new one in Broadway East within the next two months.

City officials are not to be forgotten either. Plans call for a plaque to be erected noting the names of the mayor, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo and the 13 aldermen who voted for the legislation creating the memorial.

Ground-breaking for the flag poles will be this Saturday with formal dedication of the memorial set for Oct. 25 at 11 a.m., Veterans Day. The County Sheriff's cruiser, are getting in shape. "Remember," Hanley admonished them, "no hitchhiking. It's against the law."

An appeal for funds has gone out to some 300 "dignitaries and prominent persons" in the Kingston police department.

Town-Village Controversy Centers on Paltz Water Bill

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — The latest water bill submitted to the Town of New Paltz by the Village of New Paltz will probably not be paid. The town has not paid the full village water bill for the period June 1, 1970 to May 31, 1971.

Village Trustee John Sherwig, at Monday night's village board meeting, voiced the hope that the town would pay the latest water bill, submitted on Aug. 10, by the village board's September meeting.

The Freeman learned today that the trustee's hope is likely to go unfulfilled.

The last bill the Village sent the town was for $10,351.86. The Aug. 10 bill, which Sherwig said was figured according to procedures set by consultation with an independent accountant, reduced the figure the town owed to $9,662.59.

Rather than pay the $10,351.86 bill, the town put the money in escrow until the accounting procedures were straightened out. The town board said put the money in escrow was evidence of their good faith, and showed their intention to pay the bill when they thought it correct. The money is going to stay in escrow, according to Town Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello.

After the $10,351.86 bill was submitted by the village, the town asked for a meeting between Village Clerk-Treasurer Wilbur C. Fredenburgh and accountant Fred W. Jadrosich of the Newburgh accounting firm of Nugent and Haessler.

The meeting took place, and Jadrosich and Fredenburgh supposedly agreed on the procedures to be followed for the computation of the town water bill.

supplied by Fredenburgh. The village had overcharged the town about $2,500 for water for the billing periods ending May 31, 1969 and May 31, 1970.

He found the village billed the town for $5,693.11 for the period ending May 31, 1969. He said the correct bill should have been $5,392.75; the town was overcharged $300.36 according to the account.

He found the village billed the town for $8,891.02 for the period ending May 31, 1970. He said the town was overcharged $2,207.49 for this billing period; he found the correct figure to be $6,683.53.

He made no computations for the period ending May 31, 1971, and the billing period in dispute. The Aug. 10 bill the village submitted to the town said the town should have been billed for $7,991.63 for the period ending May 31, 1970. This is $1,308.10 more than Jadrosich's findings. It is also $899.39 less than the $8,891.02 for which the town was billed.

The Aug. 10 bill allows no credit for any overcharges.

Fredenburgh said the $1,308.10 difference between what he computed for the May 31, 1970 billing period, and what Jadrosich came up with is that Jadrosich did not take into account a provision in the contract between the town and village which states the rate for the following billing year is made up from the previous year's expenses.

Town officials are not exactly sure what they owe the village. They believe it is less than the village is billing them for, and they also believe they should receive credit for overcharges.

Give Her a Raise, Not More Kisses

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been acting funny for the last few months, so I finally wormed out of him what was bothering him. Willie said it all started when he gave his bookkeeper a few kisses because he couldn't afford to give her a raise.

Willie says now she isn't satisfied with a few kisses, and she's after him to meet her someplace. He swears he doesn't want to get involved with her, and I believe him because she is pushing 60 and still an old maid.

Willie says he can't let her go because she's an excellent bookkeeper and he couldn't run his business without her. How should this be handled?

WILLIE'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Tell Willie the cheapest solution would be to give the woman a raise.

DEAR ABBY: What does it mean when a person puts a stamp upside-down on an envelope?

DELAWARE
DEAR DELAWARE: It could mean, "I love you," "I'm in a hurry," or "I need glasses."

DEAR ABBY: Seeing as how I was new in town, I stopped a nice-looking man on the street and asked him for directions. He said it wasn't far and since he was going that way he would walk me there. Before we parted he asked me if he could see me again and I said yes.

To make a long story short, George and I started going together, and now, six months later we are very much in love, and have even talked about marriage some time in the future.

Abby, George never talks about his parents, his life or anything to do with his past. He says he has no living relatives. No parents, no sisters or brothers. He doesn't talk about his job either. He just says he "sells" for a living.

I am 28 and have never been married. George says he is 32 and has never been married either. He has been to my flat but I have never been to his. (I don't even know where he lives!) Is it possible that he has no living relatives?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Possible, but not probable. Before you invest more time to explain that he wasn't a medical doctor when the steward added, "A beautiful young lady passenger fell and hurt her hip."

Dear Abby

Leacock thought that since he had had some first aid training, he would try to help the lady — and perhaps get to know her better, so he rushed to the injured lady, but alas, he was too late. Two Doctors of Divinity and an Optometrist got there ahead of him.

G.R.E.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

in this mysterious character, find out what it is he "sells" and for whom. Then check up on him. I have a hunch it's a line you don't need.

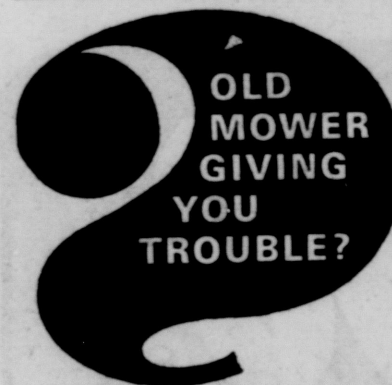

DEAR ABBY: Shall we write "finis" to the foolish squabble about whether a "PhD" should use his title with this amusing story.

The late Stephen Leacock had just received his PhD in economics and being quite proud of his new title, listed himself as "Dr. Leacock" on the passenger list of the ship on which he sailed for England.

One morning, the steward burst into Leacock's cabin and said, "Dr. Leacock, come quickly, there's been an accident!" Leacock was about

Consider the Elderly Not as a Burden but a Resource

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(© 1971, Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's "Etiquette" has been sent to Mrs. William Barnes of Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEAR MRS. POST: Old people weren't born yesterday. They have a world of knowledge stored in the warehouses of their brains. It makes one wonder why we don't stop long enough to listen and gain from their experience.

Not listening to an elderly citizen and giving him full attention is the poorest form of good manners. Recently, I attended a gathering of people of all ages. When the elderly spoke to the kids, the young laughed.

We must realize that these oldsters have lived thru good times, depressions, low pay, long hours of work, and they certainly have gained some knowledge and do have worthwhile opinions. We don't have to agree on everything. Times have changed, but at least if we listen, we could compare notes — the good with the bad. We can learn something each day from all ages. From the knowledge of an 80-year-old painter, I found the correct way to paint. His tips were invaluable. A neighbor in her seventies takes pride in her beautiful garden. Just talking and listening to her has helped me plan and cultivate my garden.

As President Nixon remarked, "Think of old people not as an obligation but as a resource."

June K. Barnes
Dear Mrs. Barnes: Your letter speaks for itself, but I wish to add that I agree with you completely. This lack of respect for the worth of older people's opinions and their experience is an unfortunate American trait. In most foreign countries, the elderly are valued members of the family unit and contribute greatly to family life, rather than being considered "burdens." This generation gap is perhaps one of the reasons for the deterioration of family continuity here in the United States.

Disrespect for age is an attitude that young people see all about them, and it is small wonder that they do not recognize the depths behind an older facade. Given the opportunity to discover it, I believe they would be surprised and appreciative.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:
Maraschino cherries are rather expensive if you are on a tight budget. After they are eaten... what to do with the juice?
I learned to put it in that boxed whipped cream topping in place of that cold milk. Talk about something tasty?
Real yummy.
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I used an eight-inch circle of nylon net and a rubber band to suspend a hyacinth bulb in a small, clear glass jar of water.
The roots grow down through the net and the lovely pink flower stands up proudly and perfumes the room.
Nothing like a flower to set your day at the proper level.
Natalie

Dear Heloise:
I sew every minute that I can find time (I'm the mother of three pre-schoolers), and have discovered that it is a real tension-easer for me.
As much as I sew, there are really hundreds of bent or broken pins and needles. I have found that a baby-food jar, plastic pill bottle or any small container with a replaceable lid is perfect for discarding them.
Punch a very small hole in the top so you can put them in as soon as they are bent or broken.
They won't fall out if the container is knocked off the machine, and they are easily discarded, bottle and all.
Elizabeth J.

Dear Heloise:
When my daughter had to remain in bed for several weeks recently, due to illness, I tried to do all sorts of things to make this time more bearable.

To protect the linens, blankets, etc. on her bed when having her meals, I made her a pretty cover for her lap to be put under the food tray.
I hemmed a length of real pretty washable material, and even added lace. The lap cover would catch the food spills and could be easily washed and dried for the next meal.
She didn't have to worry about spills, and, besides that, she felt pampered, and don't we all like a little of that, especially when we are sick?
Martha L.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
When the bundle arrives, he's, oh, so sweet. Mom and dad say he can't be beat.
We think about him being famous one day.
And end up glad he's just plain good in every way.
What more could parents ask.
Than a loving son, we've accomplished our task.
Satisfied Parents

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a yummy breakfast idea I came onto quite by accident.

Since I was out of plain bread the other day, I used raisin bread to make French toast.

With a little sugar added to the egg and milk, it was rich and custardy. Our 1-year-old loves it, and it's an easy way to get extra egg and milk into her diet.
Mrs. C. W.

DEAR HELOISE:

Do you have a lamp sitting right at the wall plug opening and the long cord is always in the way? If your lamp is like mine and has a hollow base, just push the cord back into the base of the lamp.

No dangling cords on the end tables or all over the floor.
Mrs. B. W. W.

Dear Heloise: For many years I have been reading your column and now I think it's time I shared what I think is a great idea.
When plastic containers take on unpleasant odors such as from fish, pickles or juices, simply put a handful of fresh green grass. Cover tightly and let the container sit overnight, and just like magic, all unpleasant odors disappear.

Your container is once more as fresh and sweet smelling as new-mown hay.
DOTTIE SMITH

Dear Heloise:
Here is a tried and tested recipe for all new brides:
To one cup of his "demands," use three tablespoons of "yes, dear!"
You'll find the recipe is most rewarding...

Barnett-Fowler Wedding Told

Dean Ann Barnett and Stephen Allen Fowler were married in a double-ring ceremony Friday, Aug. 20 at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Barnett Sr., 1115 North Perkins Street, Rushville, Ind.

The Rev. Summer L. Walters officiated at the ceremony before the mantle which was decorated with white flowers and flanked by ferns. Members of the family were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Barnett Jr., 1123 North Perkins Street, Rushville, Ind., are the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Fowler, Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine, are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride chose an A-line street-length dress of candle-light shantung. It was styled with high waistline and was slightly fitted. The full length sleeves were bell shaped and trimmed in Venice lace. A flat headband in shantung was trimmed with matching Venice lace. She wore a pearl necklace and carried a nosegay of white pompons and pink feathered carnations.

Miss Jane Vance Barnett, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress in off-white and burgundy textured cotton, trimmed in Venice lace. She had a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Kenneth Roy Fowler, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. A two-tier cake centered the serving table and was served by Martha Clark Barnett, sister of the bride, Deborah Durbin and Janet Lappin.

The couple took a short wedding trip to Kentucky.

The bride graduated from Rushville High School in 1968 and will be a senior at Hope College, Holland, Mich. The bridegroom is a graduate of Kingston High School, 1969, and will be a Junior at Hope College.

Gardner-Turek Nuptials Announced Here Recently

MRS. BRUCE F. TUREK

St. Mary of the Snow Church in Saugerties was the setting of the wedding of Miss Brenda Ruth Gardner, daughter of Mrs. Richard G. Gardner of RD 4, Box 25, Saugerties, and the late Richard G. Gardner, and Bruce Floyd Turek of 10 Village Drive, Saugerties, on Saturday, Aug. 14.

The Rev. Joseph F. Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Susan Martin, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the altar. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Escorted to the altar by her uncle, LeRoy Snyder, Saugerties, the bride wore an empire styled gown of white crepe with a Chantilly lace bodice featuring a scooped neckline and long Chantilly lace sleeves. The waistline and neckline were encircled with white lace. A wreath of pink and white sweetheart rosebuds with white statice held the bride's double tiered, full length veil which was trimmed with lace. She carried a single long stemmed white rosebud.

Mrs. Nancy Lavallee, Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, served as matron of honor for her sister in an empire styled gown of white eyelet lace over taffeta with a pink crepe bodice trimmed with a pink ribbon. She wore a wreath of pink sweetheart rosebuds with white statice in her hair and carried a white basket of assorted pink and white daisies, sweetheart rosebuds, carnations, chrysanthemums, and statice. Both the bride's gown and the attendant's were styled and made by the bride.

Michael Turek of Saugerties served as best man for his brother.

A reception was held at Cedar Grove Inn, Saugerties. Guests attended from Hudson, Poughkeepsie, Staatsburg, and Tucson, Ariz.

For her wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride selected a green and white dress with white accessories.

Mrs. Turek was graduated from Saugerties High School and is employed as secretary by Carworth of Stone Ridge.

Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School and Dutchess Community College, is attending State University of New York at New Paltz from where he will be graduated next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Turek will reside at Saugerties.

Feminist Says Co-Ed Life May Be Best for Girls

By FRIEDA KAYE

BALTIMORE, Md. (MW) — A feminist who teaches at a women's college thinks that in the long run co-education may be best for girls. She is Dr. Alice Rossi, professor of sociology at Goucher College here.

Professor Rossi, who has long been interested in the rights of women, believes that although an all-girl's school can create a sense of female solidarity, it may not contribute enough to a young woman's social and intellectual development.

"I don't believe there's anything more unnatural," she says, "than limiting the contacts of young people between the ages of 16 and 22 to social activities on weekends only." When students can meet spontaneously in a library, classroom, seminar or laboratory, she maintains, "then more wholesome and multi-dimensional relationships are possible."

Although the sociologist acknowledges that such contacts can be distracting, she points out that a girl must learn to cope under "distracting" circumstances whether she's in a classroom or an office. "Such distractions are going to be a constant feature of her adult life, so she had better get as much practice with them as she can."

Another kind of problem can turn up in the co-ed situation. According to Professor Rossi some girls often feel "subtle pressures" against speaking up, particularly when asked by male instructors for the "woman's point of view." Yet in most situations, Dr. Rossi declares, "there's really no reason to think the sex of the student is relevant in any way, shape or form to the topic under discussion." It's as if the instructor is saying that he expects women to respond differently, "which is a sex putdown, although often quite an unconscious one."

The sociologist contends, however, that girls without a co-educational background often have trouble competing verbally although they can readily "compete on paper, by getting good grades across the board." It's more difficult for most girls, she adds, to debate among small groups or in public because their culture and education encourages them to be "gentle, impassive."

Being self-assertive is not without its complications, says Alice Rossi, who was one of the founders in 1966 of NOW, the National Organization of Women. Some years ago, she reports, she made a vigorous speech on the professional rights of women at a meeting of the American Sociological Association, at which her sociologist husband was then presiding. Soon after, rumors began circulating about her impending divorce, she says, because people assumed no marriage could sustain "both an establishment husband and an upstart wife." It was difficult for them to understand, she explains, that a husband might not be angry or embarrassed under such circumstances, but would feel "enormous pride" in his wife instead. The Rossis, incidentally, are still married.

To Meet Thursday

The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold its regular monthly meeting at the church hall, 355 Hasbrouck Avenue, Kingston, on Thursday, Sept. 2 at 7:30 p.m.

All members are urged to attend as there will be a discussion on plans for a cafeteria supper.

Church Picnic

The Rev. Robert Whitfield of Methodist Church in Port Ewen announced that plans are now complete for the church picnic and outing to be held Sunday, Sept. 5 at Hidden Valley, Whiteport Road, four miles south of Kingston, off Route 32. The entire membership, their families, friends and neighbors are invited. It is not necessary to be a member of the church to attend the picnic. The group will meet at Hidden Valley's Sunrise Pavilion and meadow at approximately 11:30 a.m.

Bazaar Scheduled

Woodstock Garden Club will sponsor a bazaar on Saturday, Sept. 4 at Town Hall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be nothing bizarre about this bazaar, just fun and an opportunity to obtain good food, books, plants, flower arranging materials, accessories, jewelry, aprons, pot holders and sundry items.

Fall Festival

Twenty antique dealers displaying a diverse variety of goods are expected to participate in the annual Fall Festival to be sponsored by the Hurley Library Association on Saturday, Sept. 18. The sale will be held on the grounds of the Hurley Fire House, weather permitting. In case of rain, the fair will take place in the Hurley Reformed Church.

In addition to the antique show and sale, the Festival will feature baked goods, plants and vegetables, hand-crafted candles, used books, bric-a-brac and used clothing. The event will run from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Traditionally, special bargain features are run during the final hour of the sale.

Mrs. Edgar Meurs, chairman of the benefit, urges the co-operation of all Hurley residents in making this event successful so that the Hurley Library may continue to grow and effectively serve the community. Anyone wishing to donate items for sale or wishing to assist at the Festival is asked to contact Mrs. Meurs or call the Hurley Library.

Card Party

Ladies Auxiliary of Active Hose No. 1 in Rosendale will hold a card party Thursday, Sept. 23 at the firehouse in Rosendale beginning at 8 p.m.

Rapid Hose Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Rapid Hose Company No. 1 will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Sept. 9 at 8 p.m. in the meeting rooms on Hone Street, Kingston.

All members are requested to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Covered Dish Supper

Ulster County Art Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at Forsyth Park, Lucas Avenue, Kingston, on Tuesday, Sept. 7. A covered dish supper will be served at 6 p.m. under the pavilion, rain or shine. Each member is asked to bring a dish and furnish her own beverage and place setting.

The October meeting will be held as usual at YWCA, Clinton Avenue, Kingston.

Sisterhood Meeting

A paid-up membership supper and selection of officers for the coming year were discussed at the August 25 board meeting of Sisterhood of Agudas Achim which was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Blinder, 11 Coffey Place, Kingston, with Evelyn Weiner conducting the meeting in the absence of Faye Selinger. Final decisions on these matters will be made at the regular meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 8.

On Saturday, Sept. 11, Selihoth, the religious service at which prayers for forgiveness are recited prior to Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, will be observed. It is hoped that members and future members of the congregation will attend and partake of the refreshments which will be served. Pinky Rudolph will be in charge of refreshments at this event, assisted by Etta Schneider, Lorraine Trast and Thelma Weinberger.

NUTRITION COURSE — Four organizations are sponsoring a one-day workshop on "Teaching Nutrition to School Age Children" at Arlington Junior High School, Poughkeepsie. Coordinating the course for the groups are (L-R) Lawrence A. Fallis, director of Arlington Adult Continuing Education; Mrs. Joy S. Donner, executive director of Dairy Council of Mid-Hudson Area, Inc.; Miss Marilyn A. Corson, food and nutrition agent for Dutchess County Cooperative Extension Association; and Mrs. Samuel J. Campili, career guidance chairman for Mid-Hudson Dietetic Association. Slated for October 30, the workshop is open to residents of Ulster, Dutchess, Orange and Putnam Counties who are graduates of an accredited four-year college or university with a major in foods, nutrition, home economics, and/or dietetics. Cooperating with the four agencies sponsoring this day-long workshop is the Albany Regional Medical Program, Albany Medical College.

Music Appointment Made

Albert G. Hunter, Jr., Director of the Community Mixed Chorus in Poughkeepsie has announced the appointment of Daniel Lee Hooper as assistant director of the Chorus and director of the A Cappella Singers.

Mr. Hooper comes to the Community Mixed Chorus with an impressive musical background: B. M. from Juilliard, class of '69, and S. M. M. from Union Theological, class of '71.

He studied composition with Joseph Goodman, organ with Dr. Claire Coci, voice with Emil Renan, and piano with Dr. Bess Hieronymus for 15 years in San Antonio and with Josef Raieff at Juilliard.

Now on faculty at the Millbrook School for Boys, Millbrook, Mr. Hooper was formerly with the faculty of Sewanee Music Center, Sewanee, Tennessee, served as Director of Music at Chambers Memorial Baptist Church, N.Y.C., and on the Session of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, N.Y.C.

Mr. Hooper has composed an opera, Abraham and Isaac, smaller choral pieces and organ selections.

San Antonio, Dallas, and N.Y.C. have been audiences for his recitals and he appeared as guest artist for the American Academy of Music in Tenafly, New Jersey.

YWCA Working to Eliminate Racism in Nationwide Program

The Young Women's Christian Association of Kingston announced today its participation in an Action Audit for Change which the YWCA of the U.S.A. is undertaking as a part of the Association's nationwide work to eliminate racism.

Mrs. Rostislav Prymak, public affairs chairman, explained that the Action Audit is the first step in the National YWCA's three-year Program for Action based on its 1970 convention imperative to "eliminate racism wherever it exists and by any means necessary."

Objectives of the Action Audit, an action-research process, are: to seek out and evaluate data about racism in institutional structures, policies, practices and patterns of behavior; to plan and implement changes in racist institutional behavior; to assess the role and function of the YWCA as an agent of change; to maximize YWCA effectiveness in breaking the web of institutional racism and in affecting change in the society.

As Mrs. Robert W. Claytor, national president, points out "Phase I of the Action Audit helps us look at the YWCA as an institution, turning the searchlight of inquiry on ourselves first to discover where racism has been institutionalized in our own organization, looking at ourselves through our own eyes and the eyes of the community to see where the obstacles and the positive forces exist and what we must do to change. The Action Audit is the one tool we are using to enable us all to move from wherever we are to respond to change and to change in response. Phase II will focus on an audit of the community and its institutions."

The Action Audit will set in motion a process of work in a unified program to include regional YWCA workshops and Institutes for Change and Action scheduled throughout the mainland and in Hawaii. The institutes will focus on racism inherent in major institutions and issues such as housing, education, drug abuse, law enforcement and child care. In the institutes, the YWCA will involve a wide range of community groups and organizations in the development of cooperative action toward constructive change. Timetable for the workshops and institutes is estimated as September and October.

Ham Dinner

The annual ham dinner at Kripplebush firehouse, sponsored by Women's Society of Christian Service of Kripplebush Church, is scheduled for Labor Day, Sept. 6, in the dining hall from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dinner will be served family style. A bazaar and food sale is also planned.

WE AIN'T GOT NO SUGAR.

And we'll match our taste against any soda in the world. Any soda.

Our new sugar-free (cyclamate-free) NO-CAL has even less calories, ounce for ounce, than black coffee. You'll find that many of the leading "diet" drinks have added sugar; and lots of calories.

And here's why we'll match our taste against any soda in the world. We've already done it. We ran blindfold tests. We asked people to taste various sodas, both diet and regular, and tell us which they liked best. In every flavor, NO-CAL was either first, or tied for first. NO-CAL gave them lots of what they wanted—flavor; and hardly anything of what they didn't want—calories.

So be a loser and love it. With NO-CAL, the original sugar-free soft drink—and still the best. In all your favorite flavors.

Note: to diabetics. You can enjoy NO-CAL all the time because unlike many other diet sodas, NO-CAL contains no sugar.

New Look for Old Cheese Favorite

Next time you have to fix a meal in a hurry, make it macaroni and cheese. This popular pasta may have originated in Italy, but it's all-American in its appeal. Fine flavor, convenience, and above all, economy, earn macaroni and cheese a top place in the homemakers' affections.

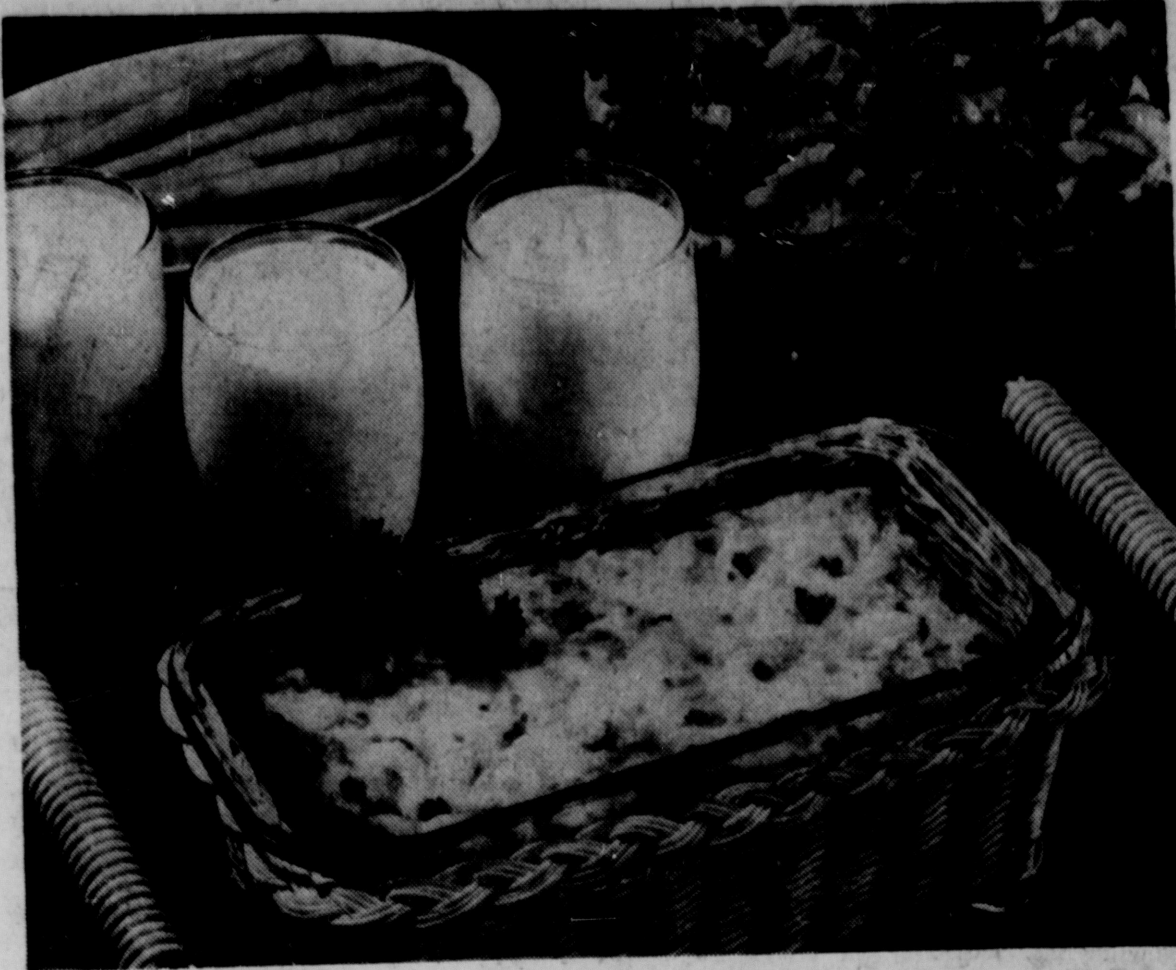

Let's see what's new with this familiar recipe. Here's a tempting, different way to prepare this perennial standby so it seems like a brand-new dish. Bake it in loaf form, with eggs and bread crumbs! This modern macaroni recipe uses pimiento and parsley for confetti colors of red and green. Its goodness comes from mellow Cheddar cheese, tender macaroni, plus milk, eggs, butter and bread crumbs. There's a touch of onion salt for extra zest. The milk makes it creamy and adds valuable protein as well as flavor.

Pour it into a loaf pan or baking dish, and serve Baked Macaroni Loaf piping hot, by the slice or the spoonful. This recipe is an excellent choice for Friday's main meal. Team it with a tossed green salad, accented with tomato wedges. Round out the menu with buttered whole carrots, young and tender; and pour your family tall glasses of icy-cold milk.

Baked Macaroni Loaf

One cup elbow macaroni
Three tablespoons butter
One and one-fourth cups milk
One cup dry bread crumbs
Three eggs
Two cups (one-half pound) shredded Cheddar cheese
One-fourth cup chopped pimiento
Three tablespoons minced parsley
One and one-half teaspoons onion salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
Cook macaroni as directed on package omitting salt; drain. In a small saucepan melt butter; stir in milk and scald. Pour over bread crumbs in a mixing bowl. Beat eggs just until yolks and whites are blended. Add macaroni, eggs, cheese, pimiento, parsley, onion salt and pepper to milk mixture. Stir lightly to blend. Pour into a buttered 1 and one-half quart baking dish. Bake in a preheated 325 degree oven 50-60 minutes or until golden brown.

CHEDDAR CHEESE gives golden goodness to macaroni fixed a new, appealing way. Bake it in loaf form with eggs and buttered crumbs, and serve it with milk, whole buttered carrots and a tossed salad for a balanced Friday dinner.

Do You Believe This?

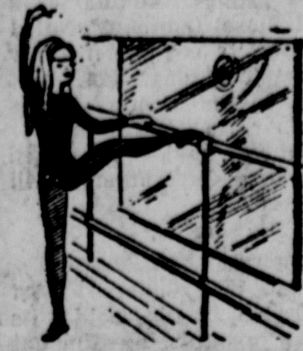

Where did the name pumpernickel come from? Would you believe it was that darling gourmet, Napoleon, who helped coin it? The man who gave us Napoleon Brandy found black rye bread for the first time during a campaign in Germany. The contrast to French white bread gave him such tremors he said: "Bon pour Nicole". Good for (my horse) Nicole.

The Germans, who had no idea of the name, immediately called their national black bread "bon pour Nicole," which in their pronunciation came out pumper-nickel.

YAZ AT GIVE AND TAKE — Red Sox Outfielder Carl Yastrzemski (L) has a give and take session with sports writers (background) as Red Sox Manager Eddie Kasko (L) looks on. (Bottom) Yastrzemski walks away smiling, during pre-game batting practice at Fenway Park Tuesday. Red Sox Owner Tom Yawkey conferred with Yastrzemski Tuesday to assure him published reports that he might be traded are not true. Yastrzemski's single with two out in the last of the ninth gave the Red Sox a 4-3 win over the Orioles in the night game. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Yaz, Yawkey — A Love Story

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

It's a good bet that Carl Yastrzemski will be playing for the Boston Red Sox as long as Tom Yawkey owns the team. Yaz showed one of the reasons Tuesday night why he's such a personal favorite of Yawkey's. After a pre-game meeting with Yawkey when the owner assured him he's unlikely to be traded, Yastrzemski came up with the game-winning hit with two out in the ninth inning.

Booed every time he came to the plate, he turned the boos to cheers when he rapped Jim Palmer for a single off the centerfield wall to drive in the deciding run as the Red Sox edged the Baltimore Orioles 4-3. The controversy exploded Monday in Boston when Yawkey was quoted as saying he'd "trade anybody" to help the club. "anybody," presumably, even included Yaz. But then the "clarifications" started. In a prepared statement issued by the club, Yawkey said, "I can't say we won't trade anybody if it'll help the ball club. However, in the two cases where I talked personally with the writers, I immediately added that I thought Yaz is certainly the most complete player the Red Sox have and surely one of the most complete players in baseball. Therefore, it would take one helluva deal for any other club to acquire him." Yawkey then had a private talk with Yaz before the game.

The owner said Yaz was "good" about it and added, "he's a pro." Yaz said after the game, "Mr. Yawkey explained about how no one is an untouchable. If the right deal presents itself, I'd have to make it. I'd always known that. It's ridiculous to think you can't be traded. Suppose somebody offered two starting pitchers. If a good deal came along, I'd be expendable. I know that. It's part of the game."

But the odds are overwhelming that no one will ever offer Yawkey a deal good enough to convince him to part with his favorite star. And Yaz admits, "baseball to me has always been the Boston Red Sox and Mr. Yawkey." Boston manager Eddie Kasko said, "that hit was timely for everyone. The stage was set and I think everyone was pulling for him." Yaz said, "under the circumstances, I suppose it would have to be a satisfying hit." Yaz's hit ruined Palmer's bid for his 17th victory. The Orioles, attempting to become the first team in 51 years to four-hitter to give the Tigers a boost four 20-game winners, have Pat Dobson at 17 and Harmon Killebrew's sacrifice fly Palmer, Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally at 16. Palmer was with the first but then blanked the Red Sox until the ninth when Mike Fiore walked and Doug Griffin singled. In other American League games, Oakland downed California 4-1, Minnesota nipped Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings, had three hits, walked and went to the four-run seventh, as the Pirates overcame a five-run deficit to beat Philadelphia, York 6-5 and Detroit beat drive.

Pirates Third Party In Cardinal Scheme

The St. Louis Cardinals hold their breath every time they play. It's not enough for them to win. The Pittsburgh Pirates also must lose.

"It's only natural to look at the scoreboard to see what Pittsburgh's doing," Jerry Reuss said after pitching the Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday night. "But you have to be more concerned about what's going on on the field."

Reuss, who made his 30th start of the year, was very concerned about what was going on until things started popping in the bottom of the ninth. Nolan Ryan started the game for New York and until he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, Reuss had good reason to be concerned. The Cardinals who now have won eight of their last nine games, jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first when Lou Brock walked, stole his 52nd base of the season, went to third on a single by Matty Alou and scored on a single by Joe Torre.

But then Ryan slammed the door. His fastball took off and he struck out 12 batters in the six innings he pitched and gave up no more walks and only two more hits.

Danny Frisella relieved Ryan and the Mets tied the game on Jerry Grote's single that scored Cleon Jones from third.

Reuss held the Mets scoreless in the ninth, and after having scattered nine hits and struck out 10 batters, the southpaw probably would not have gone to the mound again.

"I threw 148 pitches, 128 of them fastballs," Reuss said. "It's easier when you throw fewer pitches, but when you win, it doesn't make any difference."

It didn't make any difference because Alou led off the ninth with a single and then Torre singled. Tug McGraw came in to relieve Frisella and Ted Simmons greeted him with a single that scored Alou from second.

The Cardinals were able to catch their breath but not the Pirates, who beat the Phillies and kept their five-game lead in the National League East.

In other NL action, San Francisco blitzed Atlanta 9-0, Los Angeles whipped Houston

6-1, Cincinnati nipped San Diego 2-1, Pittsburgh downed Philadelphia 7-5 and Chicago edged Montreal 7-6 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was suspended after six innings because of darkness with the Expos leading 8-1.

Ken Henderson drove in three runs with his 15th homer and Gaylord Perry pitched a seven-hit shutout as the Giants piled up 11 hits off three Braves pitchers and kept their eight-game lead in the Western Division.

Perry (14-10) struck out five and walked only one man as the Giants reduced to 20 their title-clinching magic number. They have 27 games left to play.

Wes Parker slammed a two-run homer and rookie right-hander Doyle Alexander spaced nine hits to lead the Dodgers over Houston. Parker's home run, a three-run blast, gave the 20-year-old Alexander enough runs to win his fifth game in his last six decisions.

Pete Rose's one-out single in the ninth inning off reliever Al Severinsen scored Tommy Helms to give the Reds the victory over San Diego.

A double by Leron Lee and a single by pinch-hitter Larry Stahl tied the score at 1-1 in the top of the ninth.

Manny Sanguillen hit a two-run single, the third pinch-hit of the four-run seventh, as the Pirates overcame a five-run deficit to beat Philadelphia, York 6-5 and Detroit beat drive.

Rookie 0-Hits Wings

By United Press International
The best method to defeat place Red Wings 5-0 Tuesday night. Rochester was discovered by a 21-year-old pitcher just out of college ... don't allow the Red Wings a hit.

Syracuse's Mike Pazik did just that as he pitched the first no-hitter in the International League in the past four years.

as the Chiefs downed the first-place Red Wings 5-0 Tuesday night. In other IL action, Toledo edged Charleston, 5-4, Richmond downed Tidewater, 4-2 and Louisville defeated Winnipeg 7-6 in 11 innings. The 6-foot-4, 215-pound Pazik was making his fourth start for the Chiefs since being called up from Fort Lauderdale of the Florida State League in early August after being signed out of Holy Cross College in June. He allowed seven men to reach base, six on walks and the other on an error, but retired the last 10 batters he faced to record his initial win after three previous setbacks for the Chiefs.

Rick Miller singled home Juan Beniquez with none out in the bottom of the 11th to give the Colonels their triumph. Louisville had taken a 4-0 lead in the first inning on three homers—solo shots by Miller and Christ Coletta and a two-run blast by Mike Derrick.

George Kalafatis' three-run homer in the sixth inning propelled Toledo's winning effort over Charleston. A five-hit Richmond attack proved sufficient to boost the Braves past Don Rose of Tidewater, who lost his 10th game in 21 decisions.

In other NL action, San Francisco blitzed Atlanta 9-0, Los Angeles whipped Houston

Durocher Loses Three Friends—Job Next

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leo Durocher nearly beat Phil Wrigley to the punch.

He nearly quit last week. Durocher became so worked up because he felt the front office wasn't backing him enough in a showdown with his players that he almost told the Chicago Cubs what they could do with their managerial job. Almost, but not quite.

Leo will get another chance in a few weeks. Another chance to quit.

Phil Wrigley, the Cubs' owner, very likely will offer Durocher the same option Horace Stoneham did in the fall of 1955. Leo was given his choice. He could either make his own announcement he was resigning as manager of the Giants or the Giants would do it for him.

There's an old saying that when you lose your friends, you lose practically everything, and if there is any truth to that at all then Leo Durocher is in trouble. It looks as if maybe he lost three of his friends in one week. Friends may be too strong a word; more correctly these are three men who solidly supported him once. Not so solidly anymore though.

Two of the ex-friends are Jo Pepitone and Ron Santo. The third could turn out to be Phil Wrigley although he really isn't committing himself one way or the other right now.

Remember Joe Pepitone? Sure you do. Remember how he said Harry Walker nearly drove him crazy when he was with Houston? There never was any trouble like that with Leo Durocher. Leo let Joe do his thing. Joe said he was a living doll.

Some doll.

The falling out between these two warm friends resulted from a silly little thing, one which has ruined a lot of good friendships—a home run ball.

During a meeting with his players last week in Chicago, Durocher was going over a number of their mistakes and eventually got around to the home run Milt Pappas had given up to Houston's Bob Watson with two strikes. It cost the Cubs a Sunday ball game.

"Why pick on him for?" Pepitone spoke up. "He's done one helluva job for this ball club all year."

LEO DUROCHER

Pepitone's information was sound but his timing was deplorable.

Durocher wanted to know what made Pepitone such an authority all of a sudden and that merely prompted Pepitone to inquire what made Durocher such a genius?

What with words, words, words being hurled in every direction, and Leo getting increasingly hot under the collar, he suddenly directed his attention at something else that was bothering him—a special day for Ron Santo coming up that Saturday.

Durocher said the only reason they were staging such a day to being with was because Santo had gone to general manager John Holland and asked for it. You can imagine how Ron Santo, once Durocher's biggest booster on the ball club, greeted this piece of information. Goodbye friend No. 2.

Santo became so incensed that Holland was summoned to the session to answer Durocher's allegation.

Now John Holland is a fine a man as you'd ever care to meet. Put on the spot, he saw a chance to make a bad situation worse and prudently passed it up. He took no sides, and it was at this juncture that Durocher implied he'd quit if that was all the backing he got.

Phil Wrigley was distressed by the whole affair. He doesn't care for spectacles of this sort.

He said it was too late in the season to make any "radical changes" but that "something" would have to be worked out when the season was over. He did not offer Durocher his usual ringing endorsement. As a matter of fact he suggested Leo was partly to blame.

The Cubs' owner added the press hadn't helped by "harping" on the episode. He also took a swipe at Marvin Miller, the head of the Players' Association, by saying, "he has these players believing the whole game belongs to them. The owners, the fans, nobody else counts."

Phil Wrigley is a completely different individual than Leo Durocher. He is not demonstrative and rarely gets carried away by emotion.

He will calmly and quietly sit down, probably during the first week in October, and assess the Chicago Cubs' entire situation. By the sheerest coincidence, Ernie Banks could then become the first black manager in the majors.

Moosers Have Loaded Gun For State LL Tournament

KINGSTON — The Kingston club boasts three of the area's most overpowering pitchers and has a batting lineup that has backed the hurlers up with an average of nearly nine runs through the team's first five games.

However, it will be quite a rugged road for whomever becomes champion as 16 teams pair off the first day, followed by both the quarter and semi-finals the next afternoon that will decide the four teams that will survive to the consolation and championship games on Sept. 6.

Leading the Moose pitchers against their rivals from Rochester will be Tim Cole, who has

American 'B' Title Won by McCardle's

KINGSTON — Rich Hoffman won't go down in sports history as a slugger-pitcher of the caliber of Babe Ruth.

He did, however, more than carry his load to lead McCardle's Funeral Home to the American Division B championship in the City Slow Pitch Shaughnessy Division Playoffs by soundly thumping The Jungle by an 11-5 tally.

In National Division A playoff action, Larry Whiting knocked in nine runs to lead Lincoln Park over Rhinebeck Merchants, 16-12, and Don Byrd's second inning grand slam paced Garden of Eden's 22-9 slaughter of Ferraro's Bowlerama.

McCardle's 14 hits produced runs in every inning but the sixth, while The Jungle could only make a marker in the third. Hoffman was brilliant in scattering five singles, two by Rich Nagele, and also paced the winner's offensive by punching a single and clubbing the games only home run.

He got able support in the slugging department from Harry Letus, who slashed a triple, and doubles from Ken Hendricks and Bill Cuff. Steve Letus contributed a trio of safeties.

Lincoln Park, which came into its half of the sixth behind 12-10, exploded for six runs in that frame to gain its win. Whiting collected his nine RBI's by blasting three booming homers.

Don Van Keuren helped out by lacing a pair of singles and a home run for the winners, while Jit Tortorella led a losing effort by popping a homer, double and single.

The Garden scored twice in the top of the sixth to achieve its playoff win via the 13-run lead rule. It's powerful lineup

Sluggers Dominate SPL

KINGSTON — Sluggers had a field day, pounding out 13 homers, ten doubles and three triples in three games, as the division playoffs of the City Slow Pitch Softball League got underway.

Ferraro's Bowlerama took most advantage of the bombardment by "nipping" Esposito's Cleaners in a 15-13 slugfest to advance in the National Division A.

McCardle's Funeral Home

also blasted four-baggers in a losing effort.

McCardle's, led by winning pitcher Rich Hoffman's homer and double, overcame home runs by Ed Schirick, Bud Hoffman and Dave Wadsworth by erupting for seven runs in the second inning. Dan Sass added a double and triple to McCardle's 12 hits.

The Jungle was also blessed with a big second inning as they rallied for nine runs that proved the difference in its win. Center fielder Tom Cragan was the Headed the list of leaders in a 2:01.2 mile photoed out in early fractions of 29.2, .59 and 1:30.

The winner of that leg was Herman Carbone's impressive New Zealand import, Leading Light. The triumph, his first in this country, was worth $4,000 for the 7-year-old and tied him with Del Insko's Amend N for third highest money honors. Ironically, Amend N was first brought to the United States by Carbone a few years back.

With $6,000 banked after the first three weeks, Harold Dancer's Sundancer D ranks as runnerup in the battle of the richest. The well-bred Dancer Hanover, a 4-year-old, was another 2:01.2 victor in the first leg of the series before finishing second and seventh. Last week's dismal showing was due more to the bulky 11-horse field than any poor performance on Sundancer D's part.

The balance of the Mid-Summer Pacing Series field contains Al Mariacher's Gene Bloss ($2,000); Al Kish's Shady Tree Jimmy ($1,600); Billy Myer's John H. Oregon ($1,360); Insko Bonnie Frost ($1,360); and George Sziklai's Colonial ($1,280).

Hambletonian trotting stake, works out on the track at the Du Quoin State Fair Grounds, Monday, where the race will be run today. Hoot Speed, owned by the Castleton Farms, Lexington, Ky., is put through the paces by driver Glen Garnsey. Hoot Speed was clocked under two minutes for the mile at Springfield, Ill., two weeks ago and won both heats of the Horseman's Futurity at Indianapolis.

Don Kalode Leads Juniors by Four

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — With a four-stroke lead over his 17-year-old competition, Don Kalode of Syracuse headed into the final round today of the National Junior Golfers Association Championship tournament. Walter Brown of Melrose, Mass., and Gary Olliver of Oxford trailed the front-runner with 153 totals after Tuesday's second round. Kalode, who won the New York State Junior championship three weeks ago, fired a two-over-par 74 and came in with a two-day total Tuesday of 149 in the 54-hole medal play. The 17-year-old high school senior bogeyed three of the first five holes on the second nine but rapped in a 12-foot birdie putt on the 426-yard 15th hole and finished the round with three straight pars. In the 15-hole age group Hunt Gilliland of Chattanooga, Tenn., shot a 79 to go with his opening-round 75. His 154 total is one stroke better than Rad Yaun of Liberty, who fired a 77 in second round play. Buddy Rountree of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., stands at 156 after a pair of 78s. Rob Hobson of West Edmestown slipped to an 84 but still holds a four shot advantage in the 13-14 bracket. John DeForest of Catskill is in second place at 166, the only golfer with a chance to catch Hobson in the final round for the age group. Dave Abell of Fort Pierce, Fla., an 11-year-old who weighs 95 pounds played the back nine in two-over-par en route to an 81. His 167 total leads the 12-and-under group by six shots. Janet Allusi, 13, of West Caldwell, N.J., posted an 82 and her 167 total is the best of the girl golfers entered.

State Fair Prices May Lower If Executive Letter Received

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — dent Nixon's Cost of Living year would go up 50 cents, and parking fees would increase 25 cents. After President Nixon announced a 90-day wage-price freeze on Aug. 15, the state asked the Office of Emergency Preparedness, which administers the freeze, if its price hikes were legal.

An official of the OEP wrote back that, on the basis of the state's claim that the fair was "an entirely new production," prices could be raised.

But The Associated Press quipped the President's Cost of Living Council, which oversees the OEP, about the increase.

The council said Monday and repeated Tuesday that the price hikes would have to be rescinded. It said a letter officially notifying state officials of its decision was being sent.

Ticket sellers and gate attendants at the fair were told to inform fair-goers to keep their ticket stubs in order to be eligible for refunds in the event of a rollback.

Gracing what has otherwise been an awkward start for the annual show, pretty dark-haired Susan Mesick began her reign today as New York State Dairy Princess.

The 18-year-old brunette from South Schodack in Rensselaer County was chosen over 46 other contestants at the Fair Tuesday night.

State officials were fearful that reduced attendance and a federal rollback of prices would create a deficit even larger than the $31,000 they said they anticipated before the threatened price rollback.

Daniel M. Dalrymple, assistant state commissioner of agriculture, said the deficit could rise to $151,000 just from the effect of rolling back prices to last year's $1.50 for admission and 75 cents for parking.

Fair officials announced in June that admission prices this HAPPY END TO ORDEAL—Two Boston University students, Ellen Western (L), 20, and Patricia Macaluso, 20 look happy at Heathrow Airport in London, England, though penniless, as their financial ordeal is likely to end shortly. Pan American World Airways has started flying home U. S. students stranded in London because they bought worthless round trip air tickets from New York charter companies. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

Your Horoscope

Thursday, September 2

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening to get in touch with advanced persons who can suggest the right methods to help make your dreams come true. You then can have a more satisfactory existence by streamlining your activities so that they bring the results you desire.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good suggestions from friends can help you be successful in both business and personal relationships. You need to get out more socially. Avoid a general tendency to splurge. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Getting into a civic duty can be helpful to you in business as well as with the public in general. If you become an expert in your field, you will gain more respect. Let your desires be sensible.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your intuitive hunches can lead you to the right path now. You can obtain the data you need from others. Plan a trip you have long wanted to take. This could lead to excellent results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get bills paid easily today, and feel much better thereby. By cooperating with mate and friends, fine benefits come your way. Think and act constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you try to understand associates better, new doors of opportunity will open for you. Engage in a public work that brings excitement and satisfaction as well. Avoid trouble of all kinds.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) With all that work ahead of you, using a new system could be helpful at this time. Cooperate more with co-workers and get much accomplished. You can now improve your own efficiency considerably.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A new plan will help considerably to make your life easier and more satisfying. Get into more creative work. Put those talents to work where recreation is concerned. Show that you have wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use tact at home where kin are in a bad mood and arguments could flare up. Find the right appliances which can perk up your home. Entertain at home in the evening instead of going out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan what to do to get on the good side of an associate. A new plan makes you feel very much alert. Show that you are a very capable person. Relax with mate in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find ways and means to have greater income whether through repairs to property, an extra job or whatever. Study monetary periodicals for good ideas. Stop feeling so hopeless.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact good friends and show how devoted you are and like their company, since you have been too busy to do that for some time. Attend the social tonight and express your ambitions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make a good plan and then rely on your intuition to make it work like a charm. Come to the right decisions and you succeed. You have good advisors. Impress them with your ability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people with many novel ideas and the ability to put them across. You must teach early to do favors for others since the greatest success here comes from serving the public. This is good grounding for such a career. Allow your youngster to make changes around the house which are good and gives a sense of belonging. Send to college if possible. Give fine religious upbringing.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for September is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TRUE LOVE: (Q) My girl friend doesn't plan to go to college, or even graduate from high school. When she is 17, she wants to quit school and get married.

I'm sure it's because she wants to get away from her parents.

She sort of has me in mind for a husband. But I am sure she will marry anyone, just so she can get away.

I think marrying at 17 would be a big mistake. That would be just two years off for both of us. At that age we should be out with our friends, and meeting all kinds of people, looking for the right one to marry.

The true love, the forever love, takes a long time to find. But my girl just wants to grab me or somebody and settle down. Should I try to change her mind? I don't know what to say to her. — 15 in Connecticut.

(A) Tell your girl friend exactly what you have told me. And if you can't convince her, let her marry someone else, while you keep hunting for your true and forever love.

PAPER DOLLS: (Q) I am very embarrassed just to write to you. I am 11 years old and going into the sixth grade. Well, I have about 50 paper dolls. I play with them all the time. I don't dare tell anyone I do. Can you tell me how to stop? — Not Little Any Longer in Oregon.

(A) You aren't really too old. The "make believe" of paper dolls or regular dolls is a comfort to many girls up in to their teens. So don't be ashamed.

But you do see that you are in a minority and that what you are doing could cause your friends to talk. Seeing is the first step.

The next step is taking action.

Find a nice box for your paper dolls. Tell them good-bye for now, lock them up, and put them in the attic.

Don't forget them. When you have a little girl of your own, get the paper dolls out and give them to her.

10 Million Arabs Voting on 3-Nation Federation

By United Press International — More than 10 million Egyptians, Syrians and Libyans voted today in a referendum seeking approval for a loose three-nation federation described by their leaders as the "Arab answer to Israeli aggression."

The Sudan is expected next year to join the Federation of Arab Republics, first agreed to by the leaders of Egypt, Syria and Libya at a conference in Benghazi, Libya, April 17 in the first serious attempt at Arab unity in eight years.

In Jerusalem, government sources said Israel was reviewing its policy toward the Soviet Union, with which diplomatic relations were severed during the 1967 Middle East War. A government communiqué denied that a possible revision of Israel's Soviet policy was imminent.

The sources said Prime Minister Golda Meir asked former diplomat Dr. Benjamin Eliaz to evaluate the Soviet policy toward the Middle East and specifically Israel. There have been rumors of a Soviet-Israeli rapprochement since May.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said Israeli occupation troops patrolling the turbulent Gaza Strip killed an Arab guerrilla who had thrown a grenade at them near Shifa Hospital in Gaza City.

He said other soldiers shot and wounded an Arab woman who had broken the curfew in Khan Yunis, the strip's second largest community.

In Beirut, the anti-Iraqi newspaper Al Moharrer said Iraqi President Ahmed Hassan Bakr was wounded twice in an assassination attempt Aug. 26 during a ceremony at his palace for graduating army officers. It said the unidentified would-be assassin later was found dead and that 200 officers subsequently were arrested.

Al Moharrer said an army officer fired several shots, hitting Bakr in the shoulder and left arm. The official Iraqi News Agency recently reported that Bakr, who heads the cabinet, national assembly and constitutional court. Crucial decisions will have to be adopted unanimously by the presidential council, but each nation will maintain a high degree of independence.

The last effort at Arab unity, made by Egypt, Syria and Iraq in 1963, never emerged. The Egyptian-Syrian union of 1958 which created the United Arab Republic collapsed in 1961.

'Big' Minh Unleashes A New Blast at Bunker

(Combined Wire Services) SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh fired another blast at U.S. Ambassador Ellis-Don Bunker today, accusing him of slander, insolence and a colonialist attitude.

Minh denied a report, published after Bunker held a background briefing for selected newsmen Sunday, that the general asked the United States to organize and supervise the election scheduled for Oct. 3.

Minh said in a statement that the "diplomatic source" to whom the report was at first attributed "could only be a colonialist. No normal Vietnamese could request that the United States organize the election of his chief of state."

"The above 'source' could only be slanderous, insolent and attempting to damage the prestige of those who do not wish to be servants of foreign powers," Minh continued. "If that source is indeed the United States ambassador, that would be a cause of sadness for the American people."

Bunker told 19 American, British and French correspondents at a background briefing Sunday that Minh, in return for his guarantee to run for the presidency, "practically wanted us to run the election. He wanted more than it was possible or desirable to give."

Bunker held the briefing only on the condition that he not be identified by name. But as usual with such ground rules, his identity was generally known today.

for his own political purposes. "In the present realities," Minh said, "only the Americans could do that. Such an attitude would be 'positive neutrality.'"

ON JOB — Ambassador William J. Porter, new U. S. chief negotiator to the Paris Peace Talks, enters the Crillon Hotel in Paris, France, after conferring with officials at the U. S. Embassy. Porter arrived Monday to replace David K. E. Bruce who resigned because of health problems in July. (UPI CABLE- PHOTO).

"In the present conditions there can be no free and honest elections. In the recent legislative elections, especially in Vinh Binh, Bac Lieu, Phuoc Long, Binh Tuy . . . the government has indulged in shameful fraud and oppression of the opposition candidates. This fact is a clear indication of what one should expect from the Oct. 3 election, if it takes place."

The U.S. Embassy refused all comment on Minh's statement and Embassy spokesman Howard E. Kirchweh said Bunker would have no comment.

On battlefronts across Vietnam, communiques said North Vietnamese forces attacked a 17-vehicle South Vietnamese convoy of tanks and armored personnel carriers below the Demilitarized Line (DMZ) with 500 rounds of rocket and mortar fire, but the armored unit escaped.

"Then the shelling began and the cavalrymen closed their cupolas and kept moving," said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien of the South Vietnamese command.

He said a government soldier was wounded and an armored personnel carrier damaged.

U.S. command spokesmen today reported the loss of two American OH6 light observation helicopters to Communist anti-aircraft fire. One crewman was injured in the loss of one copter 45 miles east-northeast of Saigon and there were no injuries in the other crash, in Quang Ngai Province.
